Fortas Seen Facing Move To Quit Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Mitchell reportedly has met with Chief Justice Earl Warren and asked him to urge Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to resign.

Newsweek magazine said Sunday that Mitchell, acting on orders from President Nixon, told Warren that the Justice Department has "far more serious" information than has been revealed so far and that "the facts were bound to come out eventually."

The magazine said Mitchell hoped Warren would go to Fortas with these facts and suggest he resign.

Fortas, whose nomination last year by President Lyndon B. Johnson to be chief justice was withdrawn under heavy congressional pressure, has come under new fire since the disclosure that he accepted, but later returned, a $20,000 fee from a charitable foundation set up by the family of Louis Wolfson, a financier now in jail after being convicted of violating securities laws.

Rep H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, said Sunday he has prepared articles of impeachment against Fortas and will present them in the House unless the justice resigns in a "reasonable time." He did not say what he views as a reasonable time.

Gross said his resolution accuses Fortas of malfeasance, misconduct and impropriety, based largely on the fee from the Wolfson foundation.

A few hours before Gross' statement, Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota became the first Democratic senator to say publicly that Fortas should resign.

At a news conference in Minneapolis, Mondale called the situation a national tragedy and said he was acting "because no one else seemed willing to do it."

Newsweek also said President Nixon discussed Fortas at the regular White House strategy session last week, urging party leaders "not to involve this matter in partisanship" and expressing hope that no one would rush toward impeachment.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, said Sunday the impeachment move is Gross' affair alone and the GOP leadership has neither taken a position on the matter nor considered taking one.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Sunday Fortas should give "some further explanation" of his involvement with Wolfson. Celler is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which would have to act on impeachment proceedings.

Cable Weaknesses Force Closing Of Chester Bridge

Last Traffic Slated For Wednesday

Inspection Reveals New Weaknesses In Cables Of Structure

Continued fraying and corroding of cables on the Chester Bridge has brought an order to close the 73-year-old suspension span Wednesday morning.

The Ohio Highway Department announced today it was shutting off all traffic on the bridge as a result of the latest inspection which shows the deterioration of the cables has "accelerated."

P. E. Masheter, director of highways, said after making the official journal entry to close the span Wednesday at 11 a.m., "We do not want a re-occurence of the Silver Bridge tragedy which took place Dec. 15, 1967, near Gallipolis when the West Virginia - owned structure collapsed into the Ohio River, killing 46."

Masheter said the consulting engineers — Modjeski & Master of Harrisburg, Pa. — have filed a report after one of the firm's periodic inspection which indicated the span should be closed.

THE INSPECTION was made late in March and early April, and the report was filed at Columbus May 5. Masheter said the closing order was delayed until a satisfactory re-routings or detours could be worked out with Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The consulting engineers had inspected the 1,485-foot bridge early in 1968 after the Silver Bridge collapsed, and reported the cables were corroding and that the bridge should be replaced as soon as possible.

A 5,000-ton load limit was placed on the bridge, limiting it to passenger cars, in February 1968. Seven-foot high barriers were installed at either end shortly afterward to prevent trucks from using the span.

The engineers' report showed cables below the roadway deck, especially on the Ohio side, are highly corroded, and many single wires which make up the cables, have been parted and cannot be repaired or replaced.

"OUR RECENT inspection," the report stated, "reveals that corrosion in the cables has continued at an accelerated rate. . . we feel the condition is such we can no longer determine the safety factory of the structure. The time for immediate closing has arrived."

At present, West Virginia officials have been studying a report from the Wilbur Smith Associates, consulting engineers, for sites for a new span.

The preliminary report of the Smith firm of Hartford, Conn., has been presented to the Ohio Department of Highways. However, the final selection of a site for the new span is being delayed awaiting completion of another engineering firm's report on the proposed extension of the Freeway from 3rd St. east to the East End.

Three sites have been tentatively suggested — one just

Nation Due Nixon Talk On Vietnam

President Confers With Abrams; To Speak Wednesday

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred today with the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams, and will address the nation Wednesday night on prospects of peace as he sees them.

There was no indication of any major breakthrough in this direction.

Abrams flew in from Vietnam Sunday and is returning this afternoon.

This morning he met with Nixon, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the President's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said this first meeting between the President and the top U.S. military man in Vietnam was a review of the situation there, with three factors uppermost.

Nixon sought Abrams' views on enemy military activity, including the possibility of new offensive actions.

He wanted information on the state of training of the South Vietnam army.

And he wanted to discuss the level of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

On the latter point, Ziegler said he wanted to emphasize that any decision on force levels will be made on the basis of the three criteria he said Nixon has mentioned on numerous occasions:

1. "The ability of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves in the areas we now are defending them.
2. "Progress of the Paris talks.
3. "The level of enemy activity."

Casualties Reported Light

159 Allied Bases, Towns Hit In Fierce Cong Blow

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops raked 159 allied military positions and towns with rockets and mortars during the night and into today in the largest number of attacks in a 24-hour period since the Tet offensive of February 1968.

Several attacks were followed by infantry strikes, with the heaviest fighting centered northwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border, and south of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city.

First reports, still incomplete, listed more than 300 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed in ground fighting. U.S. casualties were put at 17 killed and 136 wounded in the ground fighting alone.

The U.S. Command did not disclose casualties from the rocket and mortar attacks, but headquarters said over-all casualties and damage to the American side were light.

The North Vietnamese 1st Division mounted the heaviest attacks of the night against the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in War Zone C bordering Cambodia northwest of Saigon.

North Vietnamese troops from the 1st Division slammed more than 500 rounds of rockets and mortars into three U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division bases blocking the northwesterly approaches into Saigon.

In each case, they followed up the heavy shellings with infantry assaults, touching off night-long fighting. In these three battles alone, ranging from 50 to 60 miles northwest of Saigon, at least 46 North Vietnamese and 16 Americans were counted dead. Another 99 U.S. cavalrymen were wounded.

The Viet Cong also kept up a wave of terrorist attacks in Saigon and other population centers.

Despite the upsurge in enemy activity, military spokesmen declined to say if it was the start of the summer offensive which capured documents said the Communist command has ordered.

"We feel he has not kicked off his main summer offensive yet," said one military analyst. He said captured documents indicated this would come later this month or in June.

The analyst said the attacks in the 3rd Corps area, where much of the action centered, were possibly a diversionary move to screen the movement

Students Remain On Hunger Strike

By The Associated Press

Nearly 100 students at Marietta College in Ohio began the third day of a hunger strike to protest the expulsion of the student body president. City College of New York holds is first day of classes under a new president, while protests continue at several other campuses.

In Marietta, 94 of the school's 1,800 students started a hunger strike Saturday after the school's president Dr. Frank E. Duddy, expelled Earl Maiman, newly elected head of the student body on Thursday. Duddy said Maiman had used "inflammatory language" and there was no place for him on campus.

At City College Dr. Joseph J. Copeland, named acting president, Saturday, faced continuing protests by black, Puerto Rican and white radical students.

The protesters want the school closed until five demands of the minority group students are met. They include a separate school of black and Hispanic studies and matching the school's enrollment of 20,000 to the ethnic makeup of the city's high scholls, which are 40 per cent Negro and Puerto Rican.

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher resigned Friday as president, charging "politically motivated outside forces" made normal education impossible. He had been president 17 years.

The campus on the edge of Harlem was the scene of 11 suspicious fires and clashes between students of different political persuasion after the Board of Higher Education ordered the school opened last week under pressure from court orders.

Black and Puerto Rican faculty members announced they would join a strike by student protesters until the demands were met. They said they were supported by 200 white instructors.

At other campuses:

Olean, N.Y.—The Very Rev. Reginald Redlon, president of St. Bonaventure University, banned Students for a Democratic Society from the campus. He termed the radical group "antidemocratic, anti-American and anti-Christian." He made the announcement at a Mother's Day Mass, after unidentified students broke into a school office Friday night and stole confidential files.

SDS has about 12 members at the 1,700-student school.

Washington—Howard University reopens nine of 10 academic divisions today, but the college of liberal arts remains closed. An official said its classrooms were damaged extensively during a student occupation of six campus buildings at the predominantly Negro school of 8,200 last week.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, departing on a 17-day trip to Asia, said today he is anxious to talk with South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu both about developments in the war and the Paris peace negotiations.

He told newsmen he hopes to have "constructive meetings at Bangkok of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the seven nations with troops in South Vietnam.

He also hopes for a constructive session of the Central Treaty Organization meeting in Tehran.

It is his first undertaking at individual diplomacy since becoming secretary but he accompanied President Nixon last March on the presidential seven-nation European trip.

Extra security precautions will be in effect for Rogers and his party in Saigon.

Some U.S. experts think a current Communist terror campaign is directed at Rogers' forthcoming first-hand talks with Vietnamese authorities on the Viet Cong 10-point peace plan.

Other experts attribute the campaign more closely to the Viet Cong initiative in Paris and the birthday May 19 of North Vietnam Communist leader Ho Chi Minh.

Apart from the issues raised by the Communist's latest settlement proposals made in Paris last week, Rogers is expected to be questioned in detail about possible U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam. There

Teachers Delay Walkout In Western Beaver Area

Classes were under way today in Western Beaver School District as teachers — who had threatened to "withhold services" this morning — continued their duties while proposals for salary increases are being studied by the board of education.

The 87-member Western Beaver Education Association last week authorized a walkout today after teacher representatives and board members were unable to reach agreement over the salary issue and fringe benefits.

A tentative agreement concerning class operations this week was agreed upon at a teacher - board meeting Sunday night which lasted until after midnight.

The faculty agreed to be in classes today and Tuesday while the board studies the proposals.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 10 countdown starts at midnight tonight. If all goes well, three astronauts will be launched on a trail-blazing moon orbit next Sunday.

The mission is to take man within 50,000 feet of the moon. That will pave the way for the Apollo 11 team to attempt a lunar landing in July.

Flying Apollo 10 will be an all-veteran crew: Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan. Stafford and Young have made two space trips each and Cernan one.

The countdown will take 93 hours, but it will be spread out over 5½ days. The additional time will be used up in several planned holds to give the crew rest and time to correct any problems which may arise.

There are only five days this month when the moon is in a favorable position to receive visitors from earth.

Pentagon Set To Disperse Bomber Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon plans to scatter the U.S. nuclear bomber fleet over twice the airfields now used to cut the planes' growing vulnerability to a Soviet missile strike, Defense officials say.

Under the new plan, to be announced soon, the Air Force will redistribute its 538 52 and B58 bombers over some 70 American airfields in order to complicate the Soviet targeting problem.

Currently the nuclear equipped bomber squadrons of the Strategic Air Command are stationed at 35 bases.

The dispersal program is a direct result of the Soviet Union's stepped up deployment of submarines which could launch nuclear missiles while submerged 1,500 miles from U.S. shores and its development of a fractional orbital bombardment system—FOBS.

Either weapon sharply reduces the amount of warning time which U.S. bombers could get during an attack and raises the possibility that an unacceptable number could be lost on the ground to nuclear bursts.

Bankers Put Squeeze On Speculators

LONDON (AP) The pound and the dollar, embattled throughout last week's speculative rush to buy West German marks, recovered in tense money markets today as central bankers mounted a big squeeze against the speculators.

But there was little sign of a rush to convert deutschemarks back into dollars, pounds, French francs or any of the other beleaguered currencies.

The pound jumped nearly half a cent in London to $2.38735, against Friday's floor-level closing at $2.3825.

The dollar snapped back to four marks in Zurich, from Friday's 3.915, but declined from 4.33 Swiss francs Friday to 4.3185 at today's opening. The deutschemark also dropped sharply, from 110-110.50 Swiss francs for 100 marks to 107.75-108.

But dealers in all markets called these technical reactions and said business was small.

Investors and speculators appeared to be waiting to see the effect of the measures taken by the central bankers to "recycle" speculative money back to its countries of origin. This would enable the central banks to withstand the drain on their resources.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter Hickel says he believes the Nixon administration is going to take "a hard look" at the oil industry and the oil depletion allowance.

A change in the tax allowance of 27½ per cent might be required, he said Sunday, and it could be accomplished through "tieing it down specifically to exploration in the 50 states." Nixon's tax reform proposals do not include any major revisions in the allowance.

Hickel appeared on the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

The secretary said the United States may assume control of the 2,100 islands of the Pacific Trust Territories, giving the former Japanese-controlled area the status of an unincorporated American territory.

Hickel said the oil found on Alaska's North Slope "is public oil not private oil." The development of the field should be done carefully so full benefits are realized and drilling is not done where people do not want it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government supervisers should be trained "in the skills of handling people," the new chairman of the Civil Service Commission said today.

To humanize the relationship between government boss and government employe is one of his major goals, said Robert E. Hampton in an interview.

"You often hear people taking about money, organization and number," he said. "But they're not really motivating and stimulating their people to greater originality and more interest in their work."

Government executives too often neglect the hidden resources of their personnel, he said. Still, Hampton thinks that federal managers are "pretty much among the top . . . as good as you'll find anywhere."

Hampton was replying to questions based on views he expressed in the Civil Service Journal.

The new chairman said he is considering special service programs to employ the handicapped, the mentally retarded and the "good-risk offender."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways, the Federal Aviation Administration and the Boeing Co. have been accused of neglecting safety measures in the crash of cargo jet in Alaska.

The National Transportation Safety Board issued a special report Sunday, saying it was "to demonstrate graphically how human stress, inadequate procedure, management practices and a mechanical system deficiency combine to cause a fatal accident.

Boeing recommended a $500 modification in the aircraft's takeoff-speed warning system, the board said, but failed to ask the FAA to make the change mandatory.

Pan AM and other airlines refrained from taking the corrective action recommended, the board added, and the FAA did not require the modification

Q. — What can I do about squeaking shoes?

A. — Try standing these shoes overnight in a strong salt-water solution, just enough water to cover the soles of the shoes. And to insure preserving the shape of your shoes during this treatment, better use shoe trees.

Q. — How can I repair some deeply scratched woodwork?

A. — Try filling the scratches with a mixture of fine sawdust and spar varnish, and after this has hardened completely, smooth it down with fine sandpaper.

Q. — Can you suggest a good and easy method of freshening up suede articles?

A. — Try brushing the suede with an old nylon stocking. Usually works like magic.

The Flow Of Capital

In 1960 at a conference in Rio de Janeiro, Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of the United States, declared that "Capital is a curious thing, with perhaps no nationality. It flows where it is served best."

The late president's statement was recalled last week by Charles A. Meyer, crew assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs, when he addressed leading officials of United States concerns doing business in Latin America as well as Latin-American guests.

ALTHOUGH HE DID NOT mention Peru by name, the application of his remark was not lost on his audience. For, because of the current dispute between the United States and Peru over the expropriation of North American-owned oil properties, American capital is not flowing into Peru.

Potential United States investors are reported to be adopting a wait-and-see attitude toward investments here.

Mr. Meyer, in making his point, albeit subtly, urged the Latin-American governments to establish clear rules of the game for foreign investment.

Any nation has the right to make its own rules regarding foreign investment. But it cannot expect investors to risk money in their country if they do not like the rules.

No investor is going to relish risking large sums, even in anticipation of great profit, if he also is confronted with a very definite risk of losing his property through government confiscation with grossly inadequate, if any, compensation for it.

Foreign investment often is portrayed as being selfish and inimical to the host country's interest but without it most of the small underdeveloped nations would be unable to develop at more than a snail's pace and would continue to be backward and economically poor.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY observed that it is easy for nations to overlook the risk factor which foreign investors must deal with, particularly after an investment has been successful and beneficial to both countries.

His message seems clear, as well it should, that if foreign nations want American capital to help them develop their potential and uplift their economies, they should make the inducement great enough and then stick to the rules of the game.

Otherwise, as Peru is finding out, capital will flow elsewhere — "where it is served best."

Spring Challenge

The current "Clean-Up, Fix-up, Paint-up" campaign in East Liverpool is not just an opportunity to have winter-accumulated trash hauled away by city crews.

It is a personal reminder to get things around the house done as part of a necessary maintenance program to protect the property and save major repair bills. It is also a community suggestion to upgrade the appearance of the home to fit the standards of the neighborhood.

Meeting all three challenges of the annual drive is good for your pocketbook, your neighbor's view and the city's pride.

Brockton Helps Delinquents

A Brockton, Mass., program is showing signs of becoming a model in dealing with the problem of juvenile delinquency.

Four months ago, two of every 10 juveniles appearing in court were hustled away to institutions. Today, the ratio is only three of every 100.

Two commonly held beliefs led to the new concept in handling juvenile offenders.

FIRST, MANY YOUNGSTERS get into trouble early through an error in judgment or a mischievous act. They are not criminals.

Second, when early offenders are sent away to houses of correction, they are placed in an environment conducive to advanced crime education.

To help youngsters make the turn away from a life of crime, rather than helping them along the road toward institutional crime schooling, Brockton officials developed a comprehensive approach.

Juvenile court personnel work with school people to get a thorough evaluation of young offenders. The school psychologist directs the program.

Each offender brought before the court is evaluated by school guidance counselors, teachers, a consulting psychologist, psychiatrists and nurses which provides a composite picture of the child.

Then a fairly accurate recommendation can be made on how a particular child can be helped.

The conclusion drawn from the pooled information may be a change in school curriculum, placement in a vocational school, medical treatment, etc.

Prior to implementation of the program last November, the information received by a probation officer about a juvenile delinquent consisted of a report card.

Juvenile judges have recognized for years the problems involved in sending young offenders off to institutions inadequate for the job of rehabilitation.

In many cases, they decided on probation even though a lack of a sufficient number of probation officers and a nonexistent community guidance resource made it only a slightly better choice.

PROBATION ALONE is not the answer. Youngsters involved in early run-ins with the law obviously need help. They are not getting it under the present system.

The Brockton experiment has demonstrated how community resources can be utilized in changing the direction of juvenile delinquency by changing direction of the juveniles.

Communities that continue to turn their backs on this problem are providing a pool of future criminals and the payoff will be an increasing crime rate and hectic governmental attempts to curb it.

Tax Time

The figures are now available to prove what the worker has been thinking about his taxes.

Tax Foundation, Inc., says the American worker will use 2 hours and 34 minutes of each eight-hour day to pay his taxes.

Last year two hours and 26 minutes were required and in 1966 it was two hours and 19 minutes.

To put it another way, the foundation estimates it takes 117 days out the year—on the average—for a worker to meet tax obligations.

Of if you prefer the story be told in its softest terms, you are working only eight minutes more a day to pay taxes this year than a year ago.

Peru Seeking Support

Peru, in attempting to win support in its battle against the United States over the expropriation of the property of the International Petroleum Co., is striving to organize a coalition against theis country in Latin America.

The Peruvian's pitch to its fellow South and Central American nations is that the United States is committing "economic aggression." Reports are that the charge is winning support in private expressions of leaders of nearly every Latin American country.

Experienced diplomats, however, have observed that the Latin Americans are economic realists and that what they say in their private conversations is not likely to be translated into actions which would prove damaging to their economy.

The agitation against the United States is believed to be inspired in large measure by one or more Marxists who are key advisers to the Peruvian president, Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado.

The United States, meanwhile, is conducting diplomatic talks with Peruvian representatives in Washington on a basis of urgency in an effort to resolve the expropriation issue.

The sooner the talks can be successfully concluded, the better it will be for all concerned. For the divisionary tactics being employed by Peru can hardly do this country any good.

The Happy Wanderer

The Queen Elizabeth 2 is on her maiden voyage and troubles which cropped up on a shakedown cruise seemingly have been ironed out.

The bridge has no engine room telegraph and there is no quartermaster at the wheel. They have been replaced by a sleek console adorned with a row of buttons.

A tiller that is set automatically keeps the ship on course.

From its foremast antennae, tuned to the satellites, to its up-to-date radar equipment, the Queen is a modern ship.

Stem to stern, she is a different story from the old Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary. Some of the mystic romance of sea travel retired along with the two famous liners.

But not all of it because people are still people. A successful cruise is partly a state of mind and passengers are in charge of that—thank goodness.

Musings From Max

By MARTIN MILLER

If and when an Ohio constitutional amendment barring judges over 70 years of age ever is challenged in the U.S. Supreme Court some of the justices of that august body may have strong opinions on the issue. Chief Justice Warren is 78, Justice Black is 83, Douglas, 71 and Harlan 70.

Speaking of age, that was an interesting final game between the two best pro basketball teams in the U.S. — the Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers, which the Celtics won 108 to 106. The Celtics average 32 years old and the Lakers 30. Bill Russell, the superstar player-coach of the championship Celtics, is 35. Oh my achin' back.

It probably doesn't have anything to do with Life magazine's sensational stories about Ohio Gov. Rhodes and Justice Fortas but it might be noted that shortly before Life ran the stories it was reported that profits of Time, Inc., Life's owner, were slipping. Nothing like a few sensational stories to perk up a publication.

Something we might remember when we read about the horrendous gaffs by the Office of Economic Opportunity and other such agencies is a statement once made by an official involved in such work. He said, in effect, "Maybe we haven't succeeded but nothing else ever solved this problem either. At least we are trying."

When President Nixon said his administration would ask only for such laws as it could execute he set a high standard of performance for the government. It is doubtful if any law works perfectly.

Then there was the housewife who hoped to train the outdoor birds to eat the dandelions in the lawn.

Dept. of it's not what you know but who you know: one of the singing Lennon sisters disclosed they got their first big break because one of them went to school with Lawrence Welk Jr. who arranged an audition for them with his father. But, as they say, even when you get a break you have to have something on the ball to capitalize on it.

Plumbers striking for a wage hike which could bring them $19,000 a year caused wives all over the district to tell their husbands, "I should have married a plumber."

The problems faced by the so-called developing nations is well illustrated by Mexico which had a trade deficit of $800 million last year. And Mexico is considered one of the most successful of such nations.

Some authorities trace the origin of the Russian naval buildup, as evidenced in the Mediterranean and elsewhere, to Khrushchev's decision for such a buildup after the U.S. Navy and other U.S. forces turned back Russian ships hauling missiles to Cuba.

Thor Heyerdahl, who sailed the Kon-Tiki raft from Peru to Easter Island in the Pacific to show that early voyagers could have made the trip, now is preparing to sail a boat made of reeds from North Africa to Central America in hopes of showing that ancient people could have made such a trip. Most of us laymen look upon Heyerdahl's voyages as prime adventures but he is interested in showing how mankind spread over the face of the earth. Some experts predict his reed boat will become waterlogged and sink in two weeks.

Nixon's Budget

Americans who read only the headlines complacently believe that President Nixon's revision of the Johnson budget figures gives the government a nice surplus of receipts over expenditures for fiscal 1970. And thus that the threat of infiltration may well be measurably arrested.

But experienced budget-watchers have no such illusion. They see that except for a trick in budget making indtroduced by Lyndon Johnson a year or so ago the Nixon figures would really end in red figures rather than in black.

Wilbur Mills, House Ways and Means Committee chairman, the wisest fiscal expert in Washington, quite correctly points out that if there is to be any meaningful cut in spending in fiscal 1970, the cut below the Johnson budget should be $10 billion rather than Mr. Nixon's figure of $5.5 billion.

INDEED, A HIGH OFFICIAL in the Nixon administration has admitted that the Nixon figures under traditional budget making really promise a deficit.

The key to the mystery lies in budget making. The old way of determining deficits and surpluses used the figures of what has been called the administrative budget. This included receipts from individual and corporate income taxes and other revenues to be used for general purposes.

The so-called "trust fund" figures were kept in a separate category. For these receipts were tagged for specific purposes (mostly to pay for Social Security and highways). The taxes were the Social Security tax and the tax on oil and gasoline.

Since the money necessary for the trust funds had to be sufficiently in hand for future outlays, the trust fund figures always showed a comfortable surplus.

The Johnson trick was to count over-all receipts, including both the administrative budget and trust fund incomes. This change in budget making was explained in the government's analysis of the 1968 budget.

At this point some simple-minded taxpayer might ask this pertinent question:

"Why, if the President's figures show a surplus of receipts over expenditures, was it necessary for him to ask for and get from Congress a rise in the debt limit from $365 to $377 billion?"

The answer is that when excess money is received from trust fund taxes and is to be kept in the trust funds, it is invested in government securities. For the so-called trust funds are really a collection of government IOU's.

These securities are bought mostly by the banks who take them to the Federal Reserve and are paid in new money created for the purpose. It is this new money which, in large part, fuels the fires of inflation. For as the volume of circulation currency rises, so do prices and presumably wages, too.

Another pertinent question appears at this point. Why, instead of printing new government IOU's and new money and this inflating the volume of money, does not the government go into the open market and buy the securities it needs for the trust funds?

For so far as the securities already issued and in the hands of investors are concerned, the inflationary damage has already been done.

The Treasury could buy them for its trust funds without printing new securities, which in turn causes the Federal Reserve to print new money.

And now a fantastically simple conclusion must be reached. The more surplus the government is able to show under the new over-all budget plan, the greater the rise in the national debt. This, indeed, defies the reason of ordinary people.

But the makers of budgets and the keepers of the government books are not ordinary people. They are politicians whose livelihood and continuance in office depend almost entirely upon their capacity to hoodwink the people who are paying the taxes.

AND WHILE WE ARE ON this subject of inflation, another observation is in order. In last year's campaign, candidates for Congress said a great deal about the evils of inflation. The supermarkets rang with appeals to the housewives whose budgets were pinched by high prices.

Once elected, these members of Congress forgot about the housewives but they did remember what they said about inflation and they did something about it.

They raised their own pay and that of high officers in the executive branch. Whatever might happen, these chosen people must be protected for years to come.

Now, however, they are hearing from the taxpayers and what they hear is not pleasant.

Nixon's Budget

Americans who read only the headlines complacently believe that President Nixon's revision of the Johnson budget figures gives the government a nice surplus of receipts over expenditures for fiscal 1970. And thus that the threat of infiltration may well be measurably arrested.

But experienced budget-watchers have no such illusion. They see that except for a trick in budget making indtroduced by Lyndon Johnson a year or so ago the Nixon figures would really end in red figures rather than in black.

Wilbur Mills, House Ways and Means Committee chairman, the wisest fiscal expert in Washington, quite correctly points out that if there is to be any meaningful cut in spending in fiscal 1970, the cut below the Johnson budget should be $10 billion rather than Mr. Nixon's figure of $5.5 billion.

INDEED, A HIGH OFFICIAL in the Nixon administration has admitted that the Nixon figures under traditional budget making really promise a deficit.

The key to the mystery lies in budget making. The old way of determining deficits and surpluses used the figures of what has been called the administrative budget. This included receipts from individual and corporate income taxes and other revenues to be used for general purposes.

The so-called "trust fund" figures were kept in a separate category. For these receipts were tagged for specific purposes (mostly to pay for Social Security and highways). The taxes were the Social Security tax and the tax on oil and gasoline.

Since the money necessary for the trust funds had to be sufficiently in hand for future outlays, the trust fund figures always showed a comfortable surplus.

The Johnson trick was to count over-all receipts, including both the administrative budget and trust fund incomes. This change in budget making was explained in the government's analysis of the 1968 budget.

At this point some simple-minded taxpayer might ask this pertinent question:

"Why, if the President's figures show a surplus of receipts over expenditures, was it necessary for him to ask for and get from Congress a rise in the debt limit from $365 to $377 billion?"

The answer is that when excess money is received from trust fund taxes and is to be kept in the trust funds, it is invested in government securities. For the so-called trust funds are really a collection of government IOU's.

These securities are bought mostly by the banks who take them to the Federal Reserve and are paid in new money created for the purpose. It is this new money which, in large part, fuels the fires of inflation. For as the volume of circulation currency rises, so do prices and presumably wages, too.

Another pertinent question appears at this point. Why, instead of printing new government IOU's and new money and this inflating the volume of money, does not the government go into the open market and buy the securities it needs for the trust funds?

For so far as the securities already issued and in the hands of investors are concerned, the inflationary damage has already been done.

The Treasury could buy them for its trust funds without printing new securities, which in turn causes the Federal Reserve to print new money.

And now a fantastically simple conclusion must be reached. The more surplus the government is able to show under the new over-all budget plan, the greater the rise in the national debt. This, indeed, defies the reason of ordinary people.

But the makers of budgets and the keepers of the government books are not ordinary people. They are politicians whose livelihood and continuance in office depend almost entirely upon their capacity to hoodwink the people who are paying the taxes.

AND WHILE WE ARE ON this subject of inflation, another observation is in order. In last year's campaign, candidates for Congress said a great deal about the evils of inflation. The supermarkets rang with appeals to the housewives whose budgets were pinched by high prices.

Once elected, these members of Congress forgot about the housewives but they did remember what they said about inflation and they did something about it.

They raised their own pay and that of high officers in the executive branch. Whatever might happen, these chosen people must be protected for years to come.

Now, however, they are hearing from the taxpayers and what they hear is not pleasant.

Planning Helped Prevent Certain Flood Disasters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The spring floods in the Midwest did $100 million damage, killed eight, and pushed 25,000 out of their homes. But it could have been a lot worse, the experts say.

Advance planning and accurate forecasting averted certain disaster in the opinion of federal, state and local authorities. A preliminary estimate is that some $250 million damage was prevented.

The Army Corps of Engineers says that it provided 10 million sand bags, built 200 miles of dikes and approved emergency construction contracts in some 400 communities.

The corps fielded 1,000 engineers while another 2,100 servicemen and national guardsmen turned out to fight the floods shoulder to shoulder with townspeople.

More than five million bushels of grain were hustled out of flood zones under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce commission. The Red Cross spent $1 million on, among other things, 250,000 meals served by 5,000 volunteers.

But, while the crisis is over, says Maj. Gen. Frederick J. Clarke, the new Chief of Army Engineers, the hurriedly built dikes are not good enough for the future, and a long range plan for the Midwest river basin is urgently needed.

Clark had told a House and Senate Public Works Appropriations subcommittee in April the nation's annual flood losses are liable to triple over the next 50 years if action isn't taken.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness, which had overall control of the entire Midwest flood emergency project, said the "unprecedented advance preparations were tailored to prevent as much economic fracture as possible."

Seven major federal agencies, plus the American Red Cross, became involved in "operation Foresight" which began on March 1.

Ample warning of a record snow-melt in the Dakotas and Minnesota was provided by the U.S. Weather Bureau. A Washington spokesman says, "it was quite evident, very early, that the snow would cause severe flooding."

In spite of the early warnings, five states—Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin—were designated disaster areas, but authorities there still count themselves fortunate.

Minnesota Gov. Harold Levander declared: "Minnesota citizens were spared what could have been one of the most damaging floods in the state's history by a combination of federal, state and local efforts. I don't believe I've seen a more impressive display."

Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles said weeks of levee building "averted what could have been a catastrophe."

Meanwhile, the Army engineers and the Red Cross have moved into California where valley residents are awaiting a record-breaking runoff from the melting snowpack in the Sierra Mountains.

Officers Cite 2 City Youths In Burglaries

Two teen-aged East Liverpool boys, 15 and 16, have been cited to juvenile authorities on charges they burglarized two East Liverpool business places Friday, obtaining $14 in cash and property worth $112, police reported.

The two are charged with looting the Lamp Post at 740 Dresden Ave., owned by Fred Cain of 2720 St. Clair Ave., and the Spagnol Lumber Co. in the same building.

Virtually all the property was taken from the Lamp Post. Recovered with the arrest of the two, it included $14 in change, $4 in postage stamps, a "parking meter" lamp valued at $50 an electric drill and a sander worth $29 each and a first aid kit.

Police said entry was gained at the lumber company's end of the building by pushing away a piece of plywood which had been propped against a previously-broken window. The two made an unsuccessful attempt to open the cash register in the lumber firm, officers said.

The two then climbed a flight of steps and went through a small opening that gave them entry to a space above the Lamp Post quarters. They kicked out two or three ceiling tiles to make an opening, but decided the drop to the floor was too far, so they kicked out some more tiles at another location that allowed them to drop onto some boxes, lessening the fall, officers said.

The change and postage stamps were taken from ransacked drawers in the office. The equipment was stolen from the front section of the store, where the two also obtained some more small change from the cash register.

Vandals Damage 4 Parked Autos

Four motorists told police over the weekend their autos were damaged by vandals while parked near the Ferro Corp.'s Louthan Plant in East End.

Curtis Carlin of Cannons Mills Rd. told officers Saturday some one broke the right wing window of his car, cracked the windshield and damaged the glove compartment and ignition switch while the vehicle was parked at the plant between 6 and 9 p.m. Friday.

Coleman Cunningham of RD 3 reported Saturday his car was damaged and ransacked Friday night in the same interval while parked on the company's lot. He said the left front window was cracked, the glove compartment and dash were damaged and a screw driver, wrench, the car title and registration card and an oil can opener were stolen.

Gerald Woodward of Hammond Park Addition, Wellsville, told officers a vandal broke the radio antenna of his auto and stole a screw driver and wrench. The incident also was timed between 6 and 9 p.m. Friday on the Louthan lot.

Raymond Thomas of LaCroft reported a vandal broke the radio antenna and removed a chrome strip from the right front fender of his 1966 auto while it was parked near the same plant between 10 p. m. Thursday and 6 a. m. Friday.

Heavy Damage Reported As More Tornadoes Hit

By The Associated Press

Residents of tornado-stricken communities in Butler and Warren Counties agreed Sunday that "It's a miracle that no one was killed."

Cleanup operations continued into the night Sunday in the wake of the twisters late Saturday afternoon that caused damage estimated in millions and injured several persons.

U.S. Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-Ohio, toured the area by aircraft Sunday and then sent telegrams to President Nixon and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, asking for "urgent consideration" for federal and state funds for relief of those hardest hit.

Butler County Sheriff Harold Carpenter and County Commissioner Cale Logsdon accompanied Lukens.

Carpenter estimated that total damage would run from $1 to $2 million in Pisgah, West Chester, Okeana and Maustown — all in Butler County — and Monroe along the Butler-Warren County line. He added it was a "very conservative" estimate.

Monroe Mayor Gordon Reed said damage to that town alone might run as high as $2 million.

Lebanon, Mason and Waynesville — all in Warren County — were also hit but not as hard. Several homes were leveled in both counties, roofs were ripped from others, power lines and trees were downed, and debris was strewn for miles.

"It looked like a gigantic bull dozer went through," Butler County Sgt. Ray Thomas said about Maustown.

Maustown was closed off to traffic Sunday for cleanup operations and new power lines were strung.

Sightseers hampered cleanup in some towns.

"The tornado came right through our neighborhood," said Reed Musgrove of Monroe. "I watched it until the last moment and then headed for the basement to join my family. It sounded like the 100,000 freight trains they talk about. We were shaking in our shoes."

In Portsmouth, about 100 miles from the tornadoes, one storm-related death was reported. Kenneth Nolder, 18 was electrocuted as he attempted to cross a fence after a 7,200 volt power line fell on it, police said.

Tornadoes that roared through the Dayton suburb of Kettering and the Tappan Lake of Harrison County in Eastern Ohio Thursday were blamed for three deaths.

Mrs. Mussolini Given Pension

ROME (AP) — Rachele Mussolini, the widow of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini, will get a $230-a-month pension from the state for her husband's 20 years service as Italian premier.

The pension will date from 1961 when Mrs. Mussolini first requested it, meaning she will get more than $23,000 in arrears.

Italy's top administrative tribunal debated on the amount for a year after deciding she was eligible for a pension. Records showed Mussolini received no salary for 18 years. The tribunal decided to base the pension on a salary equal to that of the highest paid state employe.

Mrs. Mussolini said she did not care about the amount but wanted the postwar government to acknowledge her husband's service.

She lives on a large estate in her native Romagna in northern Italy where she owns a restaurant.

Many Celebrities Enjoy Soul Food Dinner Event

NEW YORK (AP) — "Soul" reigned supreme at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Sunday night as 1,000 persons—including scores of celebrities—gathered for a unique, $100-a-plate dinner that featured fried chicken, collard greens and rice with black-eyed peas.

Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner, Rosalind Russell and Harry Belafonte were among those who sat at long, narrow tables covered with red and white checked cloths and passed around huge patters of food and pitchers of beer, cheeffully helping themselves to food.

The "Soul Food Dinner" was a benefit for the Free Southern Theater, a group that travels through the South, bringing theater to people in poor, Negro communities.

The evening's program was informal. The only speech was a brief welcome given by Brock Peters, board chairman of the theater.

The guests—clad in a variety of costumes ranging from African gowns to velvet evening suits—sipped cocktails and nibbled "nonsoul" hor d'oeuvres before moving into the hotel's grand ballroom for dinner, dancing and entertainment. One young woman was clad in a fairly traditional gown, but had shaved almost her entire head except for an Indian-style topknot.

The food was prepared in the hotel's kitchen by the regular Waldorf staff—a group more used to turning out roast beef and mashed potatoes.

They had some help, however, from Georgine Carter, a native of King George County, Va., and a friend of Peters.

"I think it's coming out very nicely," Mrs. Carter said after a last-minute trip to the kitchen. "They know how to cook. It's just a question of seasoning."

Guests danced to the music of Duke Ellington and Chico Hamilton, then, after finishing dessert of sweet potato or bean pie, settled back to an entertainment program that included Jack Lemmon, Liza Minnelli, Miss Gardner and the Free Southern Theater.

Among the guests were: Mayor John V. Lindsay, Cassius Clay, James Earl Jones, Myrna Loy, Godfrey Cambridge, Ann-Margret, Lauren Bacall, David Janssen, James Coburn and designer Geoffrey Beene.

The DOCTOR Says

Iodine In Milk Will Not Help Growth

Dr. Brandstadt

A BOY IN HIS early teens writes that he has read that if three times a day he would drink a glass of milk to which two drops of iodine are added he would grow taller.

He wonders whether this is true or whether an operation would be necessary to make him gain height.

I get many similar letters. The milk will help him grow but will not in any way modify his normal growth pattern and the iodine will not help at all.

Since there are several causes for short stature he should first find out what cause accounts for his lack of height. Some slow starters make unexpectedly rapid gains in their late teens without any treatment at all.

I certainly would not advise an operation. Human growth hormone stimulates growth in hormone - deficient dwarfs but is of no use in boys who do not fit this category.

Others between the ages of 3 and 17 have increased their rate of growth by taking the hormone, oxandrolone, but this should be done only under medical supervision. One should always remember that being short has its own special advantages at times.

Q.—MY DAUGHTER, 3, has juvenile eczema. Our doctor says there is no cure for it. Can the itching be controlled?

A.—It is true that in most cases control rather than cure is the rule. Even this may be difficult. The first step is to discover the offending allergen so that it can be avoided. Skin infections are commonly associated with eczema and, when they occur, must be treated promptly with antibiotics.

Local applications of betamethasone valerate are very effective in reducing inflammation and thereby indirectly allaying the itching. Instead of soap and water, your daughter's skin should be bathed with a fat-free lotion (Cetaphil).

Q.—Could a child's temperature vary a degree or more from early morning to mid-afternoon if no infection is present?

A.—If a normal child is very active an elevation of 1 to 1.5 degrees is not unusual and should not cause alarm. Most such rises in temperature go unnoticed because the wise mother doesn't routinely take the temperature of a child who appears to be well and happy.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

What is a Death Certificate?
Funeral Directors are required to file death certificates. This important but little-known document is used by the family to claim insurance, Social Security, Veteran's and other benefits.
Death certificates benefit the public by providing information used in life insurance mortality tables and in public health programs to control disease.

Tax Revolt In Progress

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

State After State Experiences Resistance

By The Associated Press

Another mass protest is in progress.

An Associated Press survey turned up, in state after state, signs of impending taxpayer resistance.

Example:

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania stumped across his state pleading for establishment of a state income tax to help balance a proposed $2.52-billion budget. At Williamsport, these placards were hoisted before his eyes: "Governor, You Hike, We Strike," and, "Join the Taxpayer Rebellion."

Later, in Harrisburg, Shafer was presented a suitcase filled with the names of 50,000 voters opposing the proposed state income tax. The Beaver Falls News-Tribune had printed blank petitions, readers had signed them and editor Bill Northrup carted them to the governor.

In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox ran into trouble with the legislature, which refused to approve major tax hike proposals resulting from the governor's $1.1-billion budget. Maddox has offered to resign if the legislature will return in special session and pass his program, including new taxes.

Taxpayers in many states are refusing to pass school bond issues.

In one week, Ohioans voted on 117 local school tax issues and rejected nearly 55 per cent of them.

Some of these proposed operating levies failed for the second and third times. Education leaders claim inflation has wiped out $100 million of local education money in the past two years.

In New York City's suburbs, voters have rejected 34 out of 55 school budgets so far this year.

Officals see the rejections as a taxpayers' revolt in the face of the failure of the state legislature to provide increases in stable aid to local school districts and with teachers demanding higher salaries.

In Great Neck, Long Island voters rejected a $22.2 million budget and elected two school trustees militantly opposed to busing Negro students in from New York City. A busting proposal was defeated in February.

"This is what we exected and this is what we were afraid of," said Milton Kurland, resident of the Nassau-Suffolk School Boards Association. "If you can't read this a a taxpayers revolt, then you have to go back to school."

Voters turned out in greater numbers than ever before in Mahtomedi, Minn., a suburb of St. Paul, to turn down bond issues for a new senior high school and swimming pool. It was the first time a bond issue ever was rejected in the community.

Two antitax leagues have been formed in Pennsylvania. Edwin Duffield, a Uniontown lawyer, says there are "several thousand members" in the group he's organizet in Fayette County.

And the Jefferson County Taxpayers League is seeking injunctions to halt a $1.7-million addition to the Punxsutawney High School and a $2.3-million school expansion at Brookville.

Sex education and portending earthquakes are among elements in the tax battling of Californians.

Sex education—described by many advocates of belt-tightening measures as a "frill" that doesn't need financing—has met with opposition in some distrirts.

The San Diego Unified Sihool District lost its first bond election in 30 years with the defeat March 13 of a $91.3-million measure intended to finance, among other things, improvement of school buildings declared unsafe in the event of an earthquake.

Los Angeles voters roundly refused to pass three school propositions and Supt. Jack Crowther placed the blame on student unrest and taxpayers' desire for tax reform.

Crowther recommended to the Board of Education a 49-cent tax boost coupled with the severest school cutbacks in the city's history—including elimination of athletic programs, bus service, classes in journalism, drama, music and art and trimming about 3,500 staff positions.

A Milwaukee group, termed "a unique uprising" by its founder, is borrowing pages from the campus disruptors' textbooks.

"The middle class for years has been afraid to rock the boat," said James P. Bebling, a resident of the North Shore suburb of Whitefish Bay and cofounder of Citizens for Tax Reform.

"But college students and minority groups have shown us that confrontation is necessary if you're going to get results," added Behling, who said some 300 persons, all earning between $7,000 and $25,000 a year, are paid memebers of his organization. Behling and others marched to the federal building in Milwaukee April 12 in a quiet protest. They taped their list of demands to a glass door at the Internal Revenue Service office.

Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi, calling Hawaiians "peasants in paradise," proposed a tourist tax which he said would "ease the burden on a community which is already staggering under its taxload."

Said Fasi: "I believe in the preservation of the aloha spirit but we must face . . . economic reality."

AFRICAN LOOK is "in" and Montreal hair stylist Charles Booth has created this shaped, bushy wig for girls who want the black look. Booth calls his easy-to-wear wig "Zulu."

Man Buys Hippo Instead Of Cheetah Or Elephant

SEATTLE (AP) — Why would a man want to own a hippopotamus?

"Oh, I don't know. It's better than owning a cheetah," said Allan E. Smith, Seattle realtor who has bought a 2,000 pound hippo for his Plain, Wash., ranch.

When Smith went to an animal dealer here to buy a cheetah, the dealer offered him an elephant. They settled on a hippopotamus.

Hr name is Gertrude. She's a Denver native, whose older sister resides at Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo.

"Amazing as it may seem, Gertrude has a personality that's out of this world," said Smith. "She expresses affection by opening her mouth and letting you rub the inside of it."

Gertrude has joined a growing menagerie on the Smith ranch which also harbors llamas and Scotish longhorn cattle. Smith also is thinking of buying some kangaroos.

"I just like animals," he said. The ranch produces only alfalfa and timothy hay commercially. The animals are for Smith's pleasure.

"Hippos are very economical for their bulk," he says. "More economical than an elephant." She stows away half a bale of hay each day plus vegetable trimmings from a Leavenworth, Wash., market.

When she arrived at the ranch last month, Gertrude lived in the basement of the barn, sleeping in an insulated stall. Ranch manager Bert Stegenan dug a six-foot-deep pit near the barn and filled it with water, and Gertrude spends most of her time there these warmer days.

This winter, Smith plans to convert half the barn basement for her.

"I'm planning on getting a couple of kangaroos to keep Gertrude company during the winter," said Smith.

"She gets very lonely."

What is a Death Certificate?

Funeral Directors are required to file death certificates. This important but little-known document is used by the family to claim insurance, Social Security, Veteran's and other benefits.

Death certificates benefit the public by providing information used in life insurance mortality tables and in public health programs to control disease.

These certificates must be issued for every death. This helps law enforcement officers in their job of detecting and preventing crime

Marine Pfc. Richard Payne of Riverside Park was found innocent today by Municipal Judge hearing on a charge he struck a 15-year-old boy Thursday during a fracas on Fairview St.

He said he was cursed by persons in the large group of juveniles and also threatened with a soft drink bottle and a broom. He was represented by George A. Aronson. Payne did not testify on his own behalf.

The judge termed Morgan "a bystander who had no reason to be there." He said he acquitted Payne because the Morgan youth said he did not know who had struck him.

Audit Slated On 100 Local Tax Returns

Adler & Co., a firm of Steubenville certified public accountants, is scheduled to start work in late May on audits of about 100 city income tax returns filed by business houses and individuals, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said today.

"It's just a spot check to make certain the law is being complied with," Wilkinson said. "No one is suspected or accused of anything. I want to emphasize that."

Wilkinson said he will send notices this week to 40 individuals and firms whose returns are scheduled to be audited May 27 and May 29. He said the CPA's will go to the business firms' offices to make the audit, rather than asking them to take their records to City Hall.

He pointed out the decision to hire the CPA firm for the audits, and also to analyze the local tax office's operations was ratified recently by Council after it had been proposed by a so-called technical advisory committee. The overall audit will cover "at least 50 business houses and probably as many individuals," Wilkinson said.

When the examination of the records is complete, the firm will submit a detailed report to Council, perhaps adding suggestions for changes in office procedures, Wilkinson said.

"This is not a financial audit of the tax office," he said. "The job was completed some time ago by Harold L. Powell of the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices. This is being done to ascertain if individuals and business houses are paying what they should pay and if there could be any changes made that would be beneficial to the city."

The letter Wilkinson will send to business houses asks them to have available 1967 and 1968 federal income tax returns and federal and state payroll tax returns.

If the date selected for the audit is inconvenient or if the business house would prefer to take its records to City Hall, it will be asked to contact the tax office.

urday afternoon with various parents to explain the faculty proposals and goals. The teachers, whose starting salary level is $5,700, are seeking a $7,000 a year starting salary.

There are 1,885 students in the district which includes Industry and Ohioville areas.

Richard Temple, president of the WBEA said today, "The association met Sunday with the board of education in a negotiating session from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. today. Because of the fact some progress has been made in salary and fringe benefits and the subsequent request on the part of the board, the teachers postponed withholding of services until 8 a.m. Wednesday.

"The reason for the request of the school board is to give them time today to once again go over the budget.

"The teachers will meet with the board Tuesday at 8 p. m., and are prepared to negotiate until 8 a.m. Wednesday. If an acceptable package is not obtained by 8 a.m. Wednesday, the teachers will withhold services at that time."

Temple said he is viewing the problem with "cautious optimism."

India Trains Scored

NEW DELHI (AP) — Many tourists don't like to come to India because it takes so long to make a reservation on Indian trains, according to the Travel Agents Association of India. Another reason for their skipping India, the association said, is the publicity given to the increasing number of rail accidents in India.

Talks

have been persistent reports that as many as 50,000 American soldiers might be pulled out of the country by the year's end.

Washington officials indicate President Nixon has not reached a final decision on reduction of U.S. forces.

The President's basic policy is to determine troop withdrawals in the light of Saigon's readiness to take over more of the fighting, progress in the Paris talks, and the level of enemy offensive operations in South Vietnam.

Rogers' trip will also take him on brief visits to New Dehli, India; Lahore, Pakistan; and Kabul, Afghanistan.

From Kabul he will fly to Iran May 25, for a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization—CENTO.

Officially, Rogers will be an observer.

He is due back in Washington May 29.

Rogers said in a statement Friday the Viet Cong's 10-point plan, which is in major part a restatement of earlier Communist proposals, requires "careful study and clarification."

"It contains some clearly unacceptable proposals," he said, "but there are elements in it which may offer a possibility for exploration."

Officials said privately they were not sure whether the plan was a propaganda maneuver or was advanced for the serious purpose of making a peaceful end to the war more attainable. The initial U.S. and South Vietnamese probes at Paris are expected to aim at providing information on this question.

Aspects of the proposal which appear to offer the possibility of profitable explorations at Paris included indications of a Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone and to consider prisoner exchanges.

Apollo

launch will have to be postponed until the next opportune interval in mid-June. That could delay the planned July 16 liftoff of Apollo 11 until August.

Stafford, who will command Apollo 10, says the flight "is designed to tie together all the knots, to try to sort out all the unknowns and pave the way for a lunar landing mission— do everything exactly as on the landing mission except the final descent to the lunar surface."

"When the Apollo 11 astronauts hear our description and study our photographs we want them to feel as if they had been there themselves," he said.

After streaking for three days into space, the astronauts are to fire themselves into orbit 69 miles above the moon, following almost the same path as the Apollo 8 pilots did on their moon orbit journey in December.

Halfway through their 2½-day stay in orbit, Stafford and Cernan will transfer through a connecting tunnel into a lunar module, or LEM, the bug-like vehicle designed to land men on the moon.

They will detach it from the command ship and jockey into an orbit that twice will take them less than 10 miles above the intended Apollo 11 landing site. They will take pictures and radar readings as they pass over the target area near the crater Moltke in the Sea of Tranquility.

They will fly a tricky rendezvous to rejoin Young in the command ship, making the same moves Apollo 11 must exercise to leave the moon after its landing.

Once Stafford and Cernan have returned to the command vehicle, they will kick the LEM free in space and spend another day in orbit, photographing potential landing areas and learning how to navigate around the moon.

Then all three will start the 54-hour return trip to a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

The flight is to last eight days, five minutes.

Cannon Duel Marks Battle In Mid-East

Both sides denied suffering any damage or casualties. But Jordanian forces said they had destroyed an Israeli tank and an observation post and silenced a gun position near the Allenby Bridge.

A Israeli spokesman said the battle began when Jordan unleashed mortar fire on Israeli emplacements around the Mandassa Bridge 10 miles north of the Dead Sea. Jordanian tanks came into action an hour later, the spokesman said.

The fighting lasted about 2½ hours. Twenty-five minutes after it ended—at about dawn—another artillery duel broke out near the Allenby Bridge just south of Mandassah. That lasted 40 minutes, stopped for 20 minutes, then resumed for another 40 minutes.

On Sunday, Israeli artillery shells exploded inside the city of Port Said for the first time since the six-day war in June 1967. Egypt said one civilian was killed in his home and that eight others were wounded.

The shells hit Port Said during a six-hour exchange of artillery fire across the Suez Canal. There were no reports of casualties on the Israeli side.

Bombers

The Nixon administration's Safeguard antiballistic missile program provides for seaward- and southward-looking radar to watch for submarine-launched missiles and the depressed-trajectory warheads of the FOBS system being tested by the Soviets.

But the radar is not enough of countermeasure, official say. Too many SAC bases are located near coastlines where they could get at best two or three minutes warning of an approaching missile.

This would not be enough time for starting the engines, getting the planes off the ground and reaching a safe distance from the base before the nuclear burst.

The United States has been keeping 40 per cent of the SAC Bomber Force on a 15-minute alert status. But 15 minutes is becoming too long to wait in the missile age.

The Safeguard system, due to be operational by around 1975, would intercept some enemy missiles approaching airfields, but Pentagon officials know that some warheads would get through to their targets.

"What we would like to do," Dr. John S. Foster Jr., the chief Pentagon scientist, told reporters recently, "is to make sure that a critical number of B52s will be able to take off in time with their tankers on their way to the Soviet Union."

That exact number is secret, but Foster said: "We plan to have many 10's of airfields, and the idea is to make sure several 10's of airfields survive."

Driver Declines Unspoken Offer

A long-haired defendant today declined an unspoken offer from Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, indicating he knew the court would offer to remit part of his fine if he submitted to a haircut.

Lawrence E. Gill, 23, of 940 Fairview St. appeared before the judge with hair extending down the back of his neck to the collar of his T-shirt. He was charged with operating an auto with a faulty exhaust Thursday night on Walnut St. The judge imposed a fine of $10 and costs and then added:

"Do you want to save some money?" Gill replied that he did not.

"You knew what was coming, didn't you?" the court asked. Gill said he was aware of the unspoken offer.

"OK," the judge said. "It's your bag and you're entitled to it."

Another passenger, Joseph Taylor, 19, of Elkton, complained of injuries, but apparently was not treated.

All three were taken to the hospital by a passerby.

Three were injured in a three-car accident on Route 154, about two miles east of Route 7 Saturday at 7:46 p.m.

Fred E. Clark Jr., 16, of 2615 Bacon Ave., East Palestine, driving west, went left of center, struck an auto driven by Raymond William Hammer, 58, of 480 Bacon Ave., East Palestine.

Clark, Hammer and Dorothy Hammer, 60, were taken to Salem City Hospital in the Negley Fire Department ambulance.

Marks was admitted to Salem City Hospital and is listed as "fair." He suffered a possible concussion and multiple lacerations of the right ear and upper lip.

Jensen apparently was not treated.

of forces into position for an assault on Saigon, or a prelude to the summer campaign.

Spokesmen said prisoners and captured documents indicate that the enmey units in the 3rd Corps area have received numerous replacements in recent weeks for the heavy losses suffered in the spring offensive they launched Feb. 23.

U.S. headquarters said 70 of the overnight rocket and mortar attacks resulted in casualties and damage, while 89 were considered "insignificant" and caused neither casualties nor damage.

"Fifty-seven of the attacked locations in this category reported 10 or less rounds of indirect fire," a communique said. Many of the locations reported only one or two rounds of indirect fire."

A spokesman for the South Vietnamese government said the objectives of the fresh wave of attacks were to show that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are capable of doing what they want in South Vietnam and to influence the peace talks in Paris and public opinion in the United States.

He said they also could be related to the arrival Wednesday of U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The targets included Saigon, seven provincial capitals and 21 district towns. The spokesman said six civilians were killed and 18 wounded in a Viet Cong attack on a refugee hamlet 35 miles south of Da Nang. But he said 116 enemy troops were killed in two attacks on government ranger outposts 19 miles southwest of Da Nang while government casualties were light.

U.S. headquarters said rocket and mortar attacks hit five American air bases the headquarters of the U.S. Army at Long Binh, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, the headquarters of the U.S. 1st, 25th and 9th Infantry Divisions and the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, all in the 3rd Corps area; three combat bases in the northernmost 1st Corps area, and several American brigade headquarters.

"Other attacks were conducted against field locations and night defensive positions in all corps tactical zones," a U.S. spokesman said. "Some locations were hit more than once."

Much of the terrorism was concentrated in Saigon. A new campaign of violence began in the city last Wednesday and was stepped up Sunday afternoon. Three more explosions shook the central market area shortly after daylight today, following a fight with a Viet Cong band in a schoolhouse and the firing of a rocket into the city a few hours earlier.

Authorities said at least eight civilians had been killed, and 38 civilians and nine soldiers and police wounded in Saigon since noon Sunday.

Three Americans were wounded by a grenade explosion near an American billet.

For several months there have been reports of extensive infiltration of Viet Cong agents and suicide squads into Saigon. Recent intelligence reports indicate that the present terror drive was timed to run from the 15th anniversary of the fall of Dien Bien Phu on May 7 to May 19, the 79th birthday of President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

Two of the ground attacks early today hit at positions held by troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in War Zone C northwest of Saigon.

At one, the enemy force opened up with rockets and mortars, then charged and seized two bunkers inside the base briefly. The invaders were driven back, and the perimeter was secured shortly before daylight.

First reports from the field said 80 North Vietnamese and five Americans were killed, and 33 Americans were wounded.

At the second Air Cav position, the fighting lasted three hours. The perimeter was penetrated and one bunker captured briefly before the enemy force was driven back. First reports said about 50 of the enemy and two Americans were killed and 45 Americans were wounded.

Just before dawn, two South Vietnamese battalions drove back heavy assaults on their base camps in areas near the Cambodian frontier. Spokesmen reported that 130 of the attackers were killed, while the government forces lost two men killed and 56 wounded.

Other sharp ground fighting was reported near Marble Mountain, just outside Da Nang. One village defended by militia forces was reported overrun and several houses and other buildings blown up before the enemy force pulled out, leaving behind two North Vietnamese flags.

Three militiamen were reported killed, but there was no word on enemy or civilian casualties.

Two miles away a U.S. Marine battalion was hit by mortars, rockets, small arms fire and tear gas. When the fighting was over, the bodies of 12 enemy were found; four Marines were killed and 19 wounded.

THE DEPARTMENT of Highways has listed the official detour as from Broadway north to Route 39 on the "Hill Rd." and through the East End to Pennsylvania Route 68, through Midland, across the Shippingport Bridge, south on Leg. Route 483 to Pennsylvania Route 18 and south to Route 30.

Ohio law, Masheter pointed out, prevents the state from building bridges to adjacent states, but the department can construct the approaches to such spans.

Tax Revolt In Progress

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

State After State Experiences Resistance

By The Associated Press

Another mass protest is in progress.

Example:

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania stumped across his state pleading for establishment of a state income tax to help balance a proposed $2.52-billion budget. At Williamsport, these placards were hoisted before his eyes: "Governor, You Hike, We Strike," and, "Join the Taxpayer Rebellion."

Later, in Harrisburg, Shafer was presented a suitcase filled with the names of 50,000 voters opposing the proposed state income tax. The Beaver Falls News-Tribune had printed blank petitions, readers had signed them and editor Bill Northrup carted them to the governor.

In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox ran into trouble with the legislature, which refused to approve major tax hike proposals resulting from the governor's $1.1-billion budget. Maddox has offered to resign if the legislature will return in special session and pass his program, including new taxes.

Taxpayers in many states are refusing to pass school bond issues.

In one week, Ohioans voted on 117 local school tax issues and rejected nearly 55 per cent of them.

Some of these proposed operating levies failed for the second and third times. Education leaders claim inflation has wiped out $100 million of local education money in the past two years.

In New York City's suburbs, voters have rejected 34 out of 55 school budgets so far this year.

Officals see the rejections as a taxpayers' revolt in the face of the failure of the state legislature to provide increases in stable aid to local school districts and with teachers demanding higher salaries.

In Great Neck, Long Island voters rejected a $22.2 million budget and elected two school trustees militantly opposed to busing Negro students in from New York City. A busting proposal was defeated in February.

"This is what we exected and this is what we were afraid of," said Milton Kurland, resident of the Nassau-Suffolk School Boards Association. "If you can't read this a a taxpayers revolt, then you have to go back to school."

Voters turned out in greater numbers than ever before in Mahtomedi, Minn., a suburb of St. Paul, to turn down bond issues for a new senior high school and swimming pool. It was the first time a bond issue ever was rejected in the community.

Two antitax leagues have been formed in Pennsylvania. Edwin Duffield, a Uniontown lawyer, says there are "several thousand members" in the group he's organizet in Fayette County.

And the Jefferson County Taxpayers League is seeking injunctions to halt a $1.7-million addition to the Punxsutawney High School and a $2.3-million school expansion at Brookville.

Sex education and portending earthquakes are among elements in the tax battling of Californians.

Sex education—described by many advocates of belt-tightening measures as a "frill" that doesn't need financing—has met with opposition in some distrirts.

The San Diego Unified Sihool District lost its first bond election in 30 years with the defeat March 13 of a $91.3-million measure intended to finance, among other things, improvement of school buildings declared unsafe in the event of an earthquake.

Los Angeles voters roundly refused to pass three school propositions and Supt. Jack Crowther placed the blame on student unrest and taxpayers' desire for tax reform.

Crowther recommended to the Board of Education a 49-cent tax boost coupled with the severest school cutbacks in the city's history—including elimination of athletic programs, bus service, classes in journalism, drama, music and art and trimming about 3,500 staff positions.

A Milwaukee group, termed "a unique uprising" by its founder, is borrowing pages from the campus disruptors' textbooks.

"The middle class for years has been afraid to rock the boat," said James P. Bebling, a resident of the North Shore suburb of Whitefish Bay and cofounder of Citizens for Tax Reform.

"But college students and minority groups have shown us that confrontation is necessary if you're going to get results," added Behling, who said some 300 persons, all earning between $7,000 and $25,000 a year, are paid memebers of his organization. Behling and others marched to the federal building in Milwaukee April 12 in a quiet protest. They taped their list of demands to a glass door at the Internal Revenue Service office.

Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi, calling Hawaiians "peasants in paradise," proposed a tourist tax which he said would "ease the burden on a community which is already staggering under its taxload."

Said Fasi: "I believe in the preservation of the aloha spirit but we must face . . . economic reality."

AFRICAN LOOK is "in" and Montreal hair stylist Charles Booth has created this shaped, bushy wig for girls who want the black look. Booth calls his easy-to-wear wig "Zulu."

Man Buys Hippo Instead Of Cheetah Or Elephant

SEATTLE (AP) — Why would a man want to own a hippopotamus?

"Oh, I don't know. It's better than owning a cheetah," said Allan E. Smith, Seattle realtor who has bought a 2,000 pound hippo for his Plain, Wash., ranch.

When Smith went to an animal dealer here to buy a cheetah, the dealer offered him an elephant. They settled on a hippopotamus.

Hr name is Gertrude. She's a Denver native, whose older sister resides at Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo.

"Amazing as it may seem, Gertrude has a personality that's out of this world," said Smith. "She expresses affection by opening her mouth and letting you rub the inside of it."

Gertrude has joined a growing menagerie on the Smith ranch which also harbors llamas and Scotish longhorn cattle. Smith also is thinking of buying some kangaroos.

"I just like animals," he said. The ranch produces only alfalfa and timothy hay commercially. The animals are for Smith's pleasure.

"Hippos are very economical for their bulk," he says. "More economical than an elephant." She stows away half a bale of hay each day plus vegetable trimmings from a Leavenworth, Wash., market.

When she arrived at the ranch last month, Gertrude lived in the basement of the barn, sleeping in an insulated stall. Ranch manager Bert Stegenan dug a six-foot-deep pit near the barn and filled it with water, and Gertrude spends most of her time there these warmer days.

This winter, Smith plans to convert half the barn basement for her.

"I'm planning on getting a couple of kangaroos to keep Gertrude company during the winter," said Smith.

"She gets very lonely."

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Light For Dark Problem

DEAR HELOISE: Here's some light on a dark subject!

Do you live in a city as I do? And is your apartment as dark and cheerless most of the time as mine is?

Heloise

Since the overhead sun keeps my window sill bright with sunlight most of the day, I "collect" it.

By taping aluminum foil along the inside window sill, a pool of light is reflected on my ceiling and it scatters soft sunlight all over the room. That's for a starter.

Later, I got more ambitious and visited the local mirror glazier. For ten cents, he sold me a paper bag full of the worthless mirror trimmings that littered the floor of his workroom. He even included pink and blue pieces.

With cement glue, I laid out a mirror mosaic on the window sills of my living room and bedroom. Now, all through the day, even in winter, the ceiling has a burst of color that is reflected into the room.

Certainly makes it more cheerful!

JOSEPHINE MOLL.

DEAR HELOISE: We have three small girls and they all love their little dollies. My husband is a child psychologist and he taught me something that I think should be passed on to other mothers.

Each daughter has her favorite dolly with which she sleeps at night. They also have a multitude of doll clothes, including nightgowns, which I made from some scraps of flannel.

After I bathe the girls at night and put on their nightgowns, I let them go in and pick up their favorite doll, powder them and dress them for bed. It is amazing how much quicker each little "doll" herself will go to sleep.

This is teaching a young daughter the mother instinct. My husband says if you let your little girls dress their doll at night, then they can go to bed and sleep peacefully.

It's great training. After all, they do sleep together...

PSYCHOLOGIST'S WIFE.

I agree with him wholeheartedly. That's the way I trained our daughter.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I thought, "I should send this in to Heloise" — then I thought — "Oh, heck, it's so obvious that everyone is probably doing it already."

Then I thought — "Sure, so was the safety pin after someone thought of it..."

DEAR HELOISE: My children were in a toothpaste test at school.

Once the two older children had left the table and brushed their teeth they could not be tempted by even the tastiest leftover — "No thanks, Mom, I just brushed my teeth."

From them I learned that as soon as I had enough to eat, I should immediately get up from the table and brush my teeth so I wouldn't be tempted to overeat.

It's that clean taste in your mouth, and, of course, the thought that you'd have to brush your teeth again! Sure works.

MARGARET SIKORA.

DEAR HELOISE: For an extra container while painting, I cut the top part off a half-gallon bleach bottle and use the bottom part to hold the extra paint.

It's very handy to carry around and easy to dip a large brush into.

MRS. THEKLA MECKER.

This column is written for you ... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Review.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Lobb Resigns Colt Position, Remains As Board Member

John C. Lobb has resigned as executive vice president of Colt Industries, but will continue to serve as a member of the board of directors and a consultant, the company announced today.

Formerly president of the Crucible Steel Corp. prior to its acquisition by Colt Industries in October 1968, Lobb played a major role in the negotiations leading to the acquisition and was one of three members of the Crucible board elected to the Colt board. As executive vice president of Colt Industries, Lobb supervised Crucible operations during the post-consolidation period.

"The basic task of the consolidation has now been completed and the outlook for both immediate and long - range results continues to be as favorable as we all expected," Lobb declared. "My interest in the situation has not diminished, but I have decided to drop specific operating responsibilities in order to develop certain personal business interests unrelated to the company."

George A. Strichman, chairman of the Board of Colt, aid the board was pleased that Lobb is continuing as a director and consultant to the company.

"He has made important contributions to both Crucible and Colt Industries and we will continue to count on him."

Eugene A. March of Beaver, metallurgical engineer who has had 23 years of executive service with Crucible and is now a vice president-group executive on the corporate staff of Colt Industries, already has assumed supervisory responsibility for all the domestic divisions and foreign operations derived from Crucible.

March worked closely with Lobb in the program to reorganize and divisionalize Crucible following the consolidation, and was elected to the Colt Industries vice presidency toward the close of 1968, when he was given direct responsibility for the three largest of the Crucible divisions. The remaining divisions were brought under his direction progressively thereafter.

New leadership for the Crucible operations was established concurrently with the divisionalization program. Divisional presidents and supporting staff were chosen principally by promotion from within the organization, but in a number of instances experienced young executives were recruited from the specialty metals and materials industries.

As now structured, the following divisions were evolved from Crucible: Crucible Alloy at Midland; Crucible Specialty Metals at Saracuse, N. Y.; Crucible Stainless Steel at Midland; Crucible Magnetics at Elizabethtown, Ky., and Trent Tube at East Troy, Wis. The largest international operation is Crucible Steel of Canada, Ldt., at Sorel, Quebec.

Jersey City, N. J. — Twenty teachers at St. Peter's College have vowed to back a student strike, entering its third day, demanding that two theology professors who have been fired be given new contracts. Two professors entered the sixth day of a hunger strike to back the demand.

The survey showed 83 per cent of the deans who replied said students would gain a larger role in running their schools in the next five years.

Eight per cent of the deans believed protest leaders are representative of most American college students; 60 per cent said the activists were "moderately but significantly representative," and 32 per cent thought the leaders "unrepresentative."

Marine Pfc. Richard Payne of Riverside Park was found innocent today by Municipal Judge hearing on a charge he struck a 15-year-old boy Thursday during a fracas on Fairview St.

Payne told investigating officers he was attempting to break up a juvenile fight in front of his mother-in-law's home. He said he was cursed by persons in the large group of juveniles and also threatened with a soft drink bottle and a broom. He was represented by George A. Aronson. Payne did not testify on his own behalf.

The judge termed Morgan "a bystander who had no reason to be there." He said he acquitted Payne because the Morgan youth said he did not know who had struck him.

Audit Slated On 100 Local Tax Returns

Adler & Co., a firm of Steubenville certified public accountants, is scheduled to start work in late May on audits of about 100 city income tax returns filed by business houses and individuals, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said today.

"It's just a spot check to make certain the law is being complied with," Wilkinson said. "No one is suspected or accused of anything. I want to emphasize that."

Wilkinson said he will send notices this week to 40 individuals and firms whose returns are scheduled to be audited May 27 and May 29. He said the CPA's will go to the business firms' offices to make the audit, rather than asking them to take their records to City Hall.

He pointed out the decision to hire the CPA firm for the audits, and also to analyze the local tax office's operations was ratified recently by Council after it had been proposed by a so-called technical advisory committee. The overall audit will cover "at least 50 business houses and probably as many individuals," Wilkinson said.

When the examination of the records is complete, the firm will submit a detailed report to Council, perhaps adding suggestions for changes in office procedures, Wilkinson said.

"This is not a financial audit of the tax office," he said. "The job was completed some time ago by Harold L. Powell of the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices. This is being done to ascertain if individuals and business houses are paying what they should pay and if there could be any changes made that would be beneficial to the city."

The letter Wilkinson will send to business houses asks them to have available 1967 and 1968 federal income tax returns and federal and state payroll tax returns.

If the date selected for the audit is inconvenient or if the business house would prefer to take its records to City Hall, it will be asked to contact the tax office.

Teachers

urday afternoon with various parents to explain the faculty proposals and goals. The teachers, whose starting salary level is $5,700, are seeking a $7,000 a year starting salary.

There are 1,885 students in the district which includes Industry and Ohioville areas.

Richard Temple, president of the WBEA said today, "The association met Sunday with the board of education in a negotiating session from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. today. Because of the fact some progress has been made in salary and fringe benefits and the subsequent request on the part of the board, the teachers postponed withholding of services until 8 a.m. Wednesday.

"The reason for the request of the school board is to give them time today to once again go over the budget.

"The teachers will meet with the board Tuesday at 8 p. m., and are prepared to negotiate until 8 a.m. Wednesday. If an acceptable package is not obtained by 8 a.m. Wednesday, the teachers will withhold services at that time."

Temple said he is viewing the problem with "cautious optimism."

India Trains Scored

NEW DELHI (AP) — Many tourists don't like to come to India because it takes so long to make a reservation on Indian trains, according to the Travel Agents Association of India. Another reason for their skipping India, the association said, is the publicity given to the increasing number of rail accidents in India.

have been persistent reports that as many as 50,000 American soldiers might be pulled out of the country by the year's end.

Washington officials indicate President Nixon has not reached a final decision on reduction of U.S. forces.

The President's basic policy is to determine troop withdrawals in the light of Saigon's readiness to take over more of the fighting, progress in the Paris talks, and the level of enemy offensive operations in South Vietnam.

Rogers' trip will also take him on brief visits to New Dehli, India; Lahore, Pakistan; and Kabul, Afghanistan.

From Kabul he will fly to Iran May 25, for a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization—CENTO.

Officially, Rogers will be an observer.

He is due back in Washington May 29.

Rogers said in a statement Friday the Viet Cong's 10-point plan, which is in major part a restatement of earlier Communist proposals, requires "careful study and clarification."

"It contains some clearly unacceptable proposals," he said, "but there are elements in it which may offer a possibility for exploration."

Officials said privately they were not sure whether the plan was a propaganda maneuver or was advanced for the serious purpose of making a peaceful end to the war more attainable. The initial U.S. and South Vietnamese probes at Paris are expected to aim at providing information on this question.

Aspects of the proposal which appear to offer the possibility of profitable explorations at Paris included indications of a Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone and to consider prisoner exchanges.

Apollo

launch will have to be postponed until the next opportune interval in mid-June. That could delay the planned July 16 liftoff of Apollo 11 until August.

Stafford, who will command Apollo 10, says the flight "is designed to tie together all the knots, to try to sort out all the unknowns and pave the way for a lunar landing mission— do everything exactly as on the landing mission except the final descent to the lunar surface."

"When the Apollo 11 astronauts hear our description and study our photographs we want them to feel as if they had been there themselves," he said.

After streaking for three days into space, the astronauts are to fire themselves into orbit 69 miles above the moon, following almost the same path as the Apollo 8 pilots did on their moon orbit journey in December.

Halfway through their 2½-day stay in orbit, Stafford and Cernan will transfer through a connecting tunnel into a lunar module, or LEM, the bug-like vehicle designed to land men on the moon.

They will detach it from the command ship and jockey into an orbit that twice will take them less than 10 miles above the intended Apollo 11 landing site. They will take pictures and radar readings as they pass over the target area near the crater Moltke in the Sea of Tranquility.

They will fly a tricky rendezvous to rejoin Young in the command ship, making the same moves Apollo 11 must exercise to leave the moon after its landing.

Once Stafford and Cernan have returned to the command vehicle, they will kick the LEM free in space and spend another day in orbit, photographing potential landing areas and learning how to navigate around the moon.

Then all three will start the 54-hour return trip to a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

The flight is to last eight days, five minutes.

Victoria, British Columbia, was founded in 1843 as a Hudson's Bay Company trading post known as Fort Camosun. Later, it renamed in honor of Queen Victoria.

Cannon Duel Marks Battle In Mid-East

Both sides denied suffering any damage or casualties. But Jordanian forces said they had destroyed an Israeli tank and an observation post and silenced a gun position near the Allenby Bridge.

A Israeli spokesman said the battle began when Jordan unleashed mortar fire on Israeli emplacements around the Mandassa Bridge 10 miles north of the Dead Sea. Jordanian tanks came into action an hour later, the spokesman said.

The fighting lasted about 2½ hours. Twenty-five minutes after it ended—at about dawn—another artillery duel broke out near the Allenby Bridge just south of Mandassah. That lasted 40 minutes, stopped for 20 minutes, then resumed for another 40 minutes.

On Sunday, Israeli artillery shells exploded inside the city of Port Said for the first time since the six-day war in June 1967. Egypt said one civilian was killed in his home and that eight others were wounded.

The shells hit Port Said during a six-hour exchange of artillery fire across the Suez Canal. There were no reports of casualties on the Israeli side.

Bombers

The Nixon administration's Safeguard antiballistic missile program provides for seaward- and southward-looking radar to watch for submarine-launched missiles and the depressed-trajectory warheads of the FOBS system being tested by the Soviets.

But the radar is not enough of countermeasure, official say. Too many SAC bases are located near coastlines where they could get at best two or three minutes warning of an approaching missile.

This would not be enough time for starting the engines, getting the planes off the ground and reaching a safe distance from the base before the nuclear burst.

The United States has been keeping 40 per cent of the SAC Bomber Force on a 15-minute alert status. But 15 minutes is becoming too long to wait in the missile age.

The Safeguard system, due to be operational by around 1975, would intercept some enemy missiles approaching airfields, but Pentagon officials know that some warheads would get through to their targets.

"What we would like to do," Dr. John S. Foster Jr., the chief Pentagon scientist, told reporters recently, "is to make sure that a critical number of B52s will be able to take off in time with their tankers on their way to the Soviet Union."

That exact number is secret, but Foster said: "We plan to have many 10's of airfields, and the idea is to make sure several 10's of airfields survive."

Driver Declines Unspoken Offer

A long-haired defendant today declined an unspoken offer from Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, indicating he knew the court would offer to remit part of his fine if he submitted to a haircut.

Lawrence E. Gill, 23, of 940 Fairview St. appeared before the judge with hair extending down the back of his neck to the collar of his T-shirt. He was charged with operating an auto with a faulty exhaust Thursday night on Walnut St. The judge imposed a fine of $10 and costs and then added:

"Do you want to save some money?" Gill replied that he did not.

"You knew what was coming, didn't you?" the court asked. Gill said he was aware of the unspoken offer.

"OK," the judge said. "It's your bag and you're entitled to it."

12 Hurt In 5 Mishaps Investigated By Patrol

A Maryland driver was treated at City Hospital following a mishap on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. at 11:29 p.m. Saturday.

The patrol said the accident occurred when an unidentified auto, stopped because of equipment failure, and a car operated by Henry J. Calhoun, 50, of Upper Marlboro, Md. attempting to change lanes was struck by an auto driven by Alfred J. Mellott, 32, of Center Rd.

Calhoun was treated for a laceration of the left eyelid and released.

The front end of the 1959 sedan driven by Mellott was demolished. Calhoun's 1969 sedan also was demolished.

An East Palestine couple and a Columbiana driver were injured in an accident on Route 14, just west of Route 165 Sunday at 1:05 a.m.

A station wagon driven by Robert R. Klopp, 23, of East Palestine was struck in the left rear by a car operatd by Arthur G. Kidd, 25, of Columbiana as Klopp attempted to turn left onto Route 14.

Klopp was admitted to Salem City Hospital suffering from scalp and forehead lacerations. He is expected to be released today.

His wife Nancy, 19, who is eight months pregnant, was admitted for observation and released Sunday.

Klopp was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way. The rear of his vehicle was demolished. Kidd's sedan received moderate damage to the left front.

Three Lisbon area residents were injured in an accident on Butcher Rd., just east of Route 14A Saturday morning at 1:05.

William J. Price, 20, of Lisbon RD 3 lost control of his 1955 coach on a curve. It went off the road and struck a utility pole, then rolled over, coming to rest on its right side.

Price was treated at Salem City Hospital for abrasions of the left elbow and hand and released.

William Cloud, 29, of 302½ W. Maple St. Lisbon, was admitted to Salem City Hospital and is in "fairly good" condition with multiple contusions of the body.

Another passenger, Joseph Taylor, 19, of Elkton, complained of injuries, but apparently was not treated.

All three were taken to the hospital by a passerby.

Three were injured in a three-car accident on Route 154, about two miles east of Route 7 Saturday at 7:46 p.m.

Fred E. Clark Jr., 16, of 2615 Bacon Ave., East Palestine, driving west, went left of center, struck an auto driven by Raymond William Hammer, 58, of 480 Bacon Ave., East Palestine.

The Hammer auto spun around and rolled over on the north edge of the road, coming to rest on its top.

Clark, Hammer and Dorothy Hammer, 60, were taken to Salem City Hospital in the Negley Fire Department ambulance.

Hammer was treated for a bruised forehead and contusion of the lip. His wife Dorothy suffered abrasions of the lower leg and a puncture of the nose.

Two Salem men were injured in a one - car accident on the Waterford Rd., about a mile and a half north of Route 46 Sunday at 12:20 a.m.

Clyde E. Marks, 28, of Salem, lost control of his 1968 sports car on a sharp curve. It went off the right side of the road and struck and embankment.

Marks was admitted to Salem City Hospital and is listed as "fair." He suffered a possible concussion and multiple lacerations of the right ear and upper lip.

Jensen apparently was not treated.

of forces into position for an assault on Saigon, or a prelude to the summer campaign.

Spokesmen said prisoners and captured documents indicate that the enmey units in the 3rd Corps area have received numerous replacements in recent weeks for the heavy losses suffered in the spring offensive they launched Feb. 23.

U.S. headquarters said 70 of the overnight rocket and mortar attacks resulted in casualties and damage, while 89 were considered "insignificant" and caused neither casualties nor damage.

"Fifty-seven of the attacked locations in this category reported 10 or less rounds of indirect fire," a communique said. Many of the locations reported only one or two rounds of indirect fire."

A spokesman for the South Vietnamese government said the objectives of the fresh wave of attacks were to show that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are capable of doing what they want in South Vietnam and to influence the peace talks in Paris and public opinion in the United States.

He said they also could be related to the arrival Wednesday of U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The targets included Saigon, seven provincial capitals and 21 district towns. The spokesman said six civilians were killed and 18 wounded in a Viet Cong attack on a refugee hamlet 35 miles south of Da Nang. But he said 116 enemy troops were killed in two attacks on government ranger outposts 19 miles southwest of Da Nang while government casualties were light.

U.S. headquarters said rocket and mortar attacks hit five American air bases the headquarters of the U.S. Army at Long Binh, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, the headquarters of the U.S. 1st, 25th and 9th Infantry Divisions and the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, all in the 3rd Corps area; three combat bases in the northernmost 1st Corps area, and several American brigade headquarters.

"Other attacks were conducted against field locations and night defensive positions in all corps tactical zones," a U.S. spokesman said. "Some locations were hit more than once."

Much of the terrorism was concentrated in Saigon. A new campaign of violence began in the city last Wednesday and was stepped up Sunday afternoon. Three more explosions shook the central market area shortly after daylight today, following a fight with a Viet Cong band in a schoolhouse and the firing of a rocket into the city a few hours earlier.

Authorities said at least eight civilians had been killed, and 38 civilians and nine soldiers and police wounded in Saigon since noon Sunday.

Three Americans were wounded by a grenade explosion near an American billet.

For several months there have been reports of extensive infiltration of Viet Cong agents and suicide squads into Saigon. Recent intelligence reports indicate that the present terror drive was timed to run from the 15th anniversary of the fall of Dien Bien Phu on May 7 to May 19, the 79th birthday of President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

Two of the ground attacks early today hit at positions held by troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in War Zone C northwest of Saigon.

At one, the enemy force opened up with rockets and mortars, then charged and seized two bunkers inside the base briefly. The invaders were driven back, and the perimeter was secured shortly before daylight.

First reports from the field said 80 North Vietnamese and five Americans were killed, and 33 Americans were wounded.

At the second Air Cav position, the fighting lasted three hours. The perimeter was penetrated and one bunker captured briefly before the enemy force was driven back. First reports said about 50 of the enemy and two Americans were killed and 45 Americans were wounded.

Just before dawn, two South Vietnamese battalions drove back heavy assaults on their base camps in areas near the Cambodian frontier. Spokesmen reported that 130 of the attackers were killed, while the government forces lost two men killed and 56 wounded.

Other sharp ground fighting was reported near Marble Mountain, just outside Da Nang. One village defended by militia forces was reported overrun and several houses and other buildings blown up before the enemy force pulled out, leaving behind two North Vietnamese flags.

Three militiamen were reported killed, but there was no word on enemy or civilian casualties.

Two miles away a U.S. Marine battalion was hit by mortars, rockets, small arms fire and tear gas. When the fighting was over, the bodies of 12 enemy were found; four Marines were killed and 19 wounded.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Light For Dark Problem

DEAR HELOISE: Here's some light on a dark subject!

Do you live in a city as I do? And is your apartment as dark and cheerless most of the time as mine is?

Heloise

Since the overhead sun keeps my window sill bright with sunlight most of the day, I "collect" it.

By taping aluminum foil along the inside window sill, a pool of light is reflected on my ceiling and it scatters soft sunlight all over the room. That's for a starter.

Later, I got more ambitious and visited the local mirror glazier. For ten cents, he sold me a paper bag full of the worthless mirror trimmings that littered the floor of his workroom. He even included pink and blue pieces.

With cement glue, I laid out a mirror mosaic on the window sills of my living room and bedroom. Now, all through the day, even in winter, the ceiling has a burst of color that is reflected into the room.

Certainly makes it more cheerful!

JOSEPHINE MOLL.

DEAR HELOISE: We have three small girls and they all love their little dollies. My husband is a child psychologist and he taught me something that I think should be passed on to other mothers.

Each daughter has her favorite dolly with which she sleeps at night. They also have a multitude of doll clothes, including nightgowns, which I made from some scraps of flannel.

After I bathe the girls at night and put on their nightgowns, I let them go in and pick up their favorite doll, powder them and dress them for bed. It is amazing how much quicker each little "doll" herself will go to sleep.

This is teaching a young daughter the mother instinct. My husband says if you let your little girls dress their doll at night, then they can go to bed and sleep peacefully.

It's great training. After all, they do sleep together...

PSYCHOLOGIST'S WIFE.

I agree with him wholeheartedly. That's the way I trained our daughter.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I thought, "I should send this in to Heloise" — then I thought — "Oh, heck, it's so obvious that everyone is probably doing it already."

Then I thought — "Sure, so was the safety pin after someone thought of it..."

DEAR HELOISE: My children were in a toothpaste test at school.

Once the two older children had left the table and brushed their teeth they could not be tempted by even the tastiest leftover — "No thanks, Mom, I just brushed my teeth."

From them I learned that as soon as I had enough to eat, I should immediately get up from the table and brush my teeth so I wouldn't be tempted to overeat.

It's that clean taste in your mouth, and, of course, the thought that you'd have to brush your teeth again! Sure works.

MARGARET SIKORA.

DEAR HELOISE: For an extra container while painting, I cut the top part off a half-gallon bleach bottle and use the bottom part to hold the extra paint.

It's very handy to carry around and easy to dip a large brush into.

Lobb Resigns Colt Position, Remains As Board Member

John C. Lobb has resigned as executive vice president of Colt Industries, but will continue to serve as a member of the board of directors and a consultant, the company announced today.

Formerly president of the Crucible Steel Corp. prior to its acquisition by Colt Industries in October 1968, Lobb played a major role in the negotiations leading to the acquisition and was one of three members of the Crucible board elected to the Colt board. As executive vice president of Colt Industries, Lobb supervised Crucible operations during the post-consolidation period.

"The basic task of the consolidation has now been completed and the outlook for both immediate and long - range results continues to be as favorable as we all expected," Lobb declared. "My interest in the situation has not diminished, but I have decided to drop specific operating responsibilities in order to develop certain personal business interests unrelated to the company."

George A. Strichman, chairman of the Board of Colt, aid the board was pleased that Lobb is continuing as a director and consultant to the company.

"He has made important contributions to both Crucible and Colt Industries and we will continue to count on him."

Eugene A. March of Beaver, metallurgical engineer who has had 23 years of executive service with Crucible and is now a vice president-group executive on the corporate staff of Colt Industries, already has assumed supervisory responsibility for all the domestic divisions and foreign operations derived from Crucible.

March worked closely with Lobb in the program to reorganize and divisionalize Crucible following the consolidation, and was elected to the Colt Industries vice presidency toward the close of 1968, when he was given direct responsibility for the three largest of the Crucible divisions. The remaining divisions were brought under his direction progressively thereafter.

New leadership for the Crucible operations was established concurrently with the divisionalization program. Divisional presidents and supporting staff were chosen principally by promotion from within the organization, but in a number of instances experienced young executives were recruited from the specialty metals and materials industries.

As now structured, the following divisions were evolved from Crucible: Crucible Alloy at Midland; Crucible Specialty Metals at Saracuse, N. Y.; Crucible Stainless Steel at Midland; Crucible Magnetics at Elizabethtown, Ky., and Trent Tube at East Troy, Wis. The largest international operation is Crucible Steel of Canada, Ldt., at Sorel, Quebec.

Support Move Lacking

Exemption Issue Lags

By JOHN R. THOMAS
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Lacking any visible administration support and statewide organization by senior citizen groups, it now appears that homestead exemption is a losing issue in the 108th Ohio General Assembly.

Not that the question has had much of a chance to be argued to date, since three House resolutions providing for property tax relief for older citizens who live in their own homes have yet to be referred by the Reference Committee.

No Hearing Yet

The lone Senate resolution calling for the question of homestead exemption to be put on the ballot next November has not received a hearing before the Ways and Means Committee.

Crowded agendas are given for the slow or unmoving resolutions. The Ways and Means Committee chairman, State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, said the Senate resolution, sponsored by Minority Leader Charles J. Carney, D-Youngstown, probably will be heard sometime, but not before the various tax packages are disposed of.

The Reference Committee chairman, State Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Columbus, said once the State Government Committee, headed by State Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-Raymond, clears up many of the bills on its busy calendar, the three homestead exemption resolutions will be referred.

Stays In Background

Depending on the length of the session, and given the possibility that the General Assembly will adjourn by mid-July, the legislators' statements could be considered paramount to saying that homestead exemption resolutions will not be considered this session.

In addition to lack of pressure both from the administration and older persons, legislators remember the ill-fated Issue No. 2 last November, and are convinced that any rerun on the ballot would result in the same conclusion.

Then the voters, unsure and having been offered no assurances that homestead exemption would be limited to those 65 and over, turned back Issue No. 2 by nearly 500,000 votes.

Approval of even an amendment, of course, does not mean that homestead exemption becomes fact; approval by the voters merely would give the General Assembly the right to pass a bill outlining who would be permitted homestead exemption, and how much.

State Rep. Walter L. White, R-Lima, who sponsored last year's homestead exemption resolution, says he doesn't detect much support for the idea this year.

"They (the older persons' groups) have no sense of organization this year. There's not much mail," White said.

He is one of those who agreed that last year's homestead exemption resolution should carry that extraneous language that he and most others agree led to its defeat.

Language Cited

That language made it possible for the General Assembly, in addition to enacting homestead exemption legislation for persons 65 and over, to include all residents of Ohio who own and reside in the homestead, the amount of such exemption to be determined by . . . law."

The reasoning involves some complex constitutional questions, which boils down to the belief of many that to single out one group — those over 65, for example — would violate the uniform taxation provisions of the federal and state constitutions.

State Rep. James Thorpe, R-Alliance, sponsor of a resolution that would limit homestead exemption to $5,000 of assessed valuation for those retired persons over 60 who live on pensions, doesn't agree.

'Reasonableness' Is Word

He says the courts have held that the uniform taxation provisions are subject to "reasonableness," and that to limit homestead exemption to one particular age group would not violate the constitution since the end result would be a "reasonable" one.

White says that may be so but does disagree with the approach of putting in specific dollar amounts as does Thorpe's resolution.

Another sponsored by State Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-Cleveland, specifies that the exemption be applied only to those over 65 whose income is $7,500 or less.

Carney's resolution would apply to persons over 65 whose property is assessed at not more than $10,000.

The fourth measure, sponsored by State Rep. Alan E. Morris, R-Westerville, would include all persons over 65.

Extended Further?

None of the resolutions includes language that would extend the coverage of any homestead exemption law to all residents, as was contained in last November's ballot issue.

White said it's wrong to put in dollar amounts, since it locks the legislature into too tight a position, and could end up with results other than that intended.

But, he said, to allow the General Assembly power to enact a bill, just taking into consideration those over 65 with no income level involved, could result in at least a modest law at first.

The law then could be amended from time to time to take into consideration changing financial conditions.

Still to be answered in any discussion of homestead exemption is how the state would reimburse local governments for loss of any income.

"There would have to be some degree of responsibility on the part of the legislature to reimburse local governments," White believes.

Other Proposals

And not to be overlooked are several tax proposals now pending before the legislature which could be a reduction in property taxes if a state- or county-wide income tax is enacted.

White says the problems of the old who want to stay in their homes during retirement despite high taxes and low income, could be resolved with passage of the income tax measures.

Additionally, the constitutional problem of uniform taxation would be resolved since any property tax reduction in the face of an income tax would be applied equally to all homeowners.

The various senior citizens groups could take a lesson from admittedly better-heeled organizations which see to it that certain legislation gets through the legislature. It's called lobbying.

Police, Firemen Corral Herd Of Pigs On Turnpike

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—It was roundup time on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday evening as state police and volunteer firemen corraled a herd of pigs that scurried over the four-lane highway after a tractor-trailer truck flipped over.

Police said the truck blocked one lane in each direction and traffic was tied for about five miles each way. It took two hours to round up the rampaging pigs and clear away the rig.

"We rounded up the pigs and corraled them in temporary pens we made from snow fence," a trooper said. He said the pigs stayed in the corrals until another truck arrived to take them away.

The driver was hospitalized at Bedford Community Hospital.

House Damaged When Auto Skids

An auto that skidded out of control Saturday night on W. 3rd St. crashed into an oncoming car and then rammed a house, damaging it extensively.

The eastbound 1967 sedan driven by Gaetano Gioconda, 73, of Carnegie struck the westbound 1965 sedan of Judith Pamintuan, 26, of Milwaukee and then plunged into a home at 318 W. 3rd St. owned by J. D. Ervin of 327 E. 8th St., police said.

Gioconda was cited on a charge of driving at speeds too great for conditions. The collision was timed at 7:15.

GIOCONDA told Patrolman Charles Coen his car skidded out of control as he rounded a bend on W. 3rd St. near Persimmon Alley. The car crossed the center line, struck the oncoming Pamintuan car on the front and then hit it again on the left rear, officers said. Gioconda's auto crossed the street and struck the house, causing major damage to the front of the structure.

The collision damaged the entire front of Gioconda's car and the front bumper and grill and both left fenders of the other auto, which is registered to James M. Ebaugh of State Route 170, officers said.

A skid on wet pavement was blamed for another mishap at the same site 30 minutes later in which an East End man's auto struck guardrails.

The 1965 four-door sedan driven by William McKinley Wyche, 41, of 1216 Pennsylvania Ave. hit the fence on W. 3rd St. 200 feet west of Persimmon Alley at 7:45 p.m. Saturday.

Wyche told Patrolman Dwight Garvey he was driving east. When his car emerged from the Freeway section onto W. 3rd St., it skidded on wet blacktop pavemene, he reported.

TWO NEW autos on a dealer's lot were damaged Sunday night at 6 when hit by a young woman's car, police reported.

The 1963 convertible driven by Barbara Jo Thomas, 17, of 1123 Vine St. left Walnut St. and veered onto a lot at the rear of the Winland Lumber Co. property, damaging two 1969 Chevrolet sedans owned by Mike Turk, Inc., of E. 6th and Walnut Sts., officers said.

The young woman said she was traveling west on Bradshaw Ave. and turned right onto Walnut St. As she entered the intersection a red vehicle traveling north on Walnut St. crashed the right light. She said she swerved to avoid a collision and her car went over the sidewalk and into the agency's lot, striking the two new cars.

The collision damaged the left front of the Thomas car and both the left and right sides of the two new cars—a four-door sedan and a two-door sedan.

Two hit-skip crashes were reported to police over the weekend.

James Jordan of 1621 Smithfield St. reported the left rear fender and bumper of his 1963 two-door sedan were damaged early Sunday when struck by a hit-skip vehicle while parked on Marcus St. 15 feet west of Smithfield St.

Two cars were damaged in a mishap Saturday at 4:06 p.m. on E. 5th St. at Crook Alley.

The collision involved a 1965 two-door sedan driven by John Wayne Whitaker, 25, of 403 Broadway and a 1963 four-door sedan operated by Jesse F. Long, 40, of 221 W. 8th St.

Long, traveling west on E. 5th St., reported he halted at Crook Alley to pick up a passenger and his auto was struck from the rear.

Tall Tales Mark Unique Air Race

LONDON (AP) — The British navy won in record time, a prince tore his pants and an American entrant in the great transatlantic air race reached London in a Gay Nineties swim suit and skis.

The week-long rush between the top of the General Post Office Tower in London and the top of the Empire State Building in New York ended Sunday. There was $144,000 in prizes for winners in 21 categories and a rich harvest of tall tales and publicity for the not-so-fast.

With several prizes not yet announced, four Americans were among the winners in the competition sponsored by the London Daily Mail. The race marked the 50th anniversary of the first transatlantic flight by Sir John Alcock and Sir Arthur Brown.

The Royal Navy waited until the last day for its best of three record-breaking efforts—5 hours, 11 minutes, 22 seconds by Lt. Cmdr. Peter Goddard, 32. The 4 hours, 46 minutes and 57 seconds his Phantom supersonic jet was in the air was a record for the New York to London crossing, an average of 723.8 miles per hour. Strong tail winds helped, and Goddard refueled six times on the way from Royal Air Force flying tankers.

RAF Squadron Leader Tom Lecky-Thompson also won $14,400 for the fastest London-New York flight—6 hours, 11 minutes and 57 seconds in Harrier jump jet.

Among the nearly 400 competitors, American prizewinners were R. W. Selph, Sandy Hook, Conn., fastest subsonic aircraft London-New York, 7 hours, 6 minutes, 24 seconds, $9,600; Miss S. M. Scribner, Garden City, N.Y., New York-London unsponsored personal attempt, 6 hours, 55 minutes, 48 seconds, $6,000; Mrs. Nancy Kelly, Pennsylvania, woman light aircraft New York-London, 22 hours, 32 minutes, 57 seconds, $2,400; Stephen Wilkinson, Florida, man light aircraft London-New York, 20 hours, 23 minutes, 32 seconds, $2,400.

A group of bowler-hatted British businessmen who flew to New York May 4 rushed back home with a prize and said they also negotiated millions of dollars of export orders with the Americans.

The prize in the chartered business jet group went to Tony Drewery, 23, who clocked in at 7 hours, 3 minutes and 5 seconds —13 minutes faster than former auto racer Stirling Moss.

Several awards, including $12,000 for the most meritorious British loser, will be announced later.

Support Move Lacking

Exemption Issue Lags

By JOHN R. THOMAS
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Lacking any visible administration support and statewide organization by senior citizen groups, it now appears that homestead exemption is a losing issue in the 108th Ohio General Assembly.

Not that the question has had much of a chance to be argued to date, since three House resolutions providing for property tax relief for older citizens who live in their own homes have yet to be referred by the Reference Committee.

No Hearing Yet

The lone Senate resolution calling for the question of homestead exemption to be put on the ballot next November has not received a hearing before the Ways and Means Committee.

Crowded agendas are given for the slow or unmoving resolutions. The Ways and Means Committee chairman, State Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, said the Senate resolution, sponsored by Minority Leader Charles J. Carney, D-Youngstown, probably will be heard sometime, but not before the various tax packages are disposed of.

The Reference Committee chairman, State Rep. Keith McNamara, R-Columbus, said once the State Government Committee, headed by State Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-Raymond, clears up many of the bills on its busy calendar, the three homestead exemption resolutions will be referred.

Stays In Background

Depending on the length of the session, and given the possibility that the General Assembly will adjourn by mid-July, the legislators' statements could be considered paramount to saying that homestead exemption resolutions will not be considered this session.

In addition to lack of pressure both from the administration and older persons, legislators remember the ill-fated Issue No. 2 last November, and are convinced that any rerun on the ballot would result in the same conclusion.

Then the voters, unsure and having been offered no assurances that homestead exemption would be limited to those 65 and over, turned back Issue No. 2 by nearly 500,000 votes.

Approval of even an amendment, of course, does not mean that homestead exemption becomes fact; approval by the voters merely would give the General Assembly the right to pass a bill outlining who would be permitted homestead exemption, and how much.

State Rep. Walter L. White, R-Lima, who sponsored last year's homestead exemption resolution, says he doesn't detect much support for the idea this year.

"They (the older persons' groups) have no sense of organization this year. There's not much mail," White said.

He is one of those who agreed that last year's homestead exemption resolution should carry that extraneous language that he and most others agree led to its defeat.

Language Cited

That language made it possible for the General Assembly, in addition to enacting homestead exemption legislation for persons 65 and over, to include all residents of Ohio who own and reside in the homestead, the amount of such exemption to be determined by . . . law."

The reasoning involves some complex constitutional questions, which boils down to the belief of many that to single out one group — those over 65, for example — would violate the uniform taxation provisions of the federal and state constitutions.

State Rep. James Thorpe, R-Alliance, sponsor of a resolution that would limit homestead exemption to $5,000 of assessed valuation for those retired persons over 60 who live on pensions, doesn't agree.

'Reasonableness' Is Word

He says the courts have held that the uniform taxation provisions are subject to "reasonableness," and that to limit homestead exemption to one particular age group would not violate the constitution since the end result would be a "reasonable" one.

White says that may be so but does disagree with the approach of putting in specific dollar amounts as does Thorpe's resolution.

Another sponsored by State Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-Cleveland, specifies that the exemption be applied only to those over 65 whose income is $7,500 or less.

Carney's resolution would apply to persons over 65 whose property is assessed at not more than $10,000.

The fourth measure, sponsored by State Rep. Alan E. Morris, R-Westerville, would include all persons over 65.

Extended Further?

None of the resolutions includes language that would extend the coverage of any homestead exemption law to all residents, as was contained in last November's ballot issue.

White said it's wrong to put in dollar amounts, since it locks the legislature into too tight a position, and could end up with results other than that intended.

But, he said, to allow the General Assembly power to enact a bill, just taking into consideration those over 65 with no income level involved, could result in at least a modest law at first.

The law then could be amended from time to time to take into consideration changing financial conditions.

Still to be answered in any discussion of homestead exemption is how the state would reimburse local governments for loss of any income.

"There would have to be some degree of responsibility on the part of the legislature to reimburse local governments," White believes.

Other Proposals

And not to be overlooked are several tax proposals now pending before the legislature which could be a reduction in property taxes if a state- or county-wide income tax is enacted.

White says the problems of the old who want to stay in their homes during retirement despite high taxes and low income, could be resolved with passage of the income tax measures.

Additionally, the constitutional problem of uniform taxation would be resolved since any property tax reduction in the face of an income tax would be applied equally to all homeowners.

The various senior citizens groups could take a lesson from admittedly better-heeled organizations which see to it that certain legislation gets through the legislature. It's called lobbying.

Police, Firemen Corral Herd Of Pigs On Turnpike

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—It was roundup time on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday evening as state police and volunteer firemen corraled a herd of pigs that scurried over the four-lane highway after a tractor-trailer truck flipped over.

Police said the truck blocked one lane in each direction and traffic was tied for about five miles each way. It took two hours to round up the rampaging pigs and clear away the rig.

"We rounded up the pigs and corraled them in temporary pens we made from snow fence," a trooper said. He said the pigs stayed in the corrals until another truck arrived to take them away.

ANN LANDERS

Just Change Your Name

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: If any of your readers are unhappy because they're stuck with a hideous name dreamed up by a mother who read a lot or a father who didn't read at all, please tell them they're suffering needlessly.

My mother named me Serenity. My sisters were named Beatitude and Tranqility. Our poor brother was named Fortitude. We hated our names but we went through school with them just the same.

A few weeks ago I met a boy I liked very much. He said his name was Dick. After several hours of conversation he admitted that his real name was Shirley but he changed it when he was 15 because the teachers kept looking for a girl.

I asked him how he went about changing his name. He said, "Simple, I just stopped using Shirley and started to use Dick."

I asked if he had to take any legal steps and he said "No. In Illinois a person can use any name he wants to if he isn't using it for illegal purposes.

I wish my brother and sisters and I had known this 10 years ago. Let your readers in on it. — FORMERLY SERENITY NOW LINDA.

—:—

Dear Linda: In most states you can go from Shirley to Dick or Serenity to Linda without any legal procedure. I suggest a call to city hall, however, to make certain the law in your state is the same.

No Bike For Two

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 14 who is having a big misunderstanding with my mother.

When I was about 9 years old my mother bought me a bike. It has been in the cellar for two years. I have a chance to sell the bike for $20. My mother says the $20 belongs to her because she bought the bike with her own money. I say the $20 belongs to me because the bike was a birthday present.

I told Mom I'd be happy to settle for half but she says I'm not entitled to anything.

I suggested writing to you and letting you decide. Mom said, "Write if you want to but I don't give a hoot what Ann Landers says. My mind is made up."

I'd like to know your opinion anyway. — SCRANTON SCRAMBLE.

Dear S.S. : Your mother didn't lend you the bike, she gave it to you. If you sell it, the money should be yours. Since her mind is made up, accept her decision graciously. She may be wrong but she's still your mother.

Helpful Hint

Dear Ann: Your answer to the troubled girl who signed herself "Cloudy Future" could have been a lot better. She was worried about what would become of her retarded and crippled brother when her parents passed on.

Why didn't you tell her to write to the American Association for Retarded Children? They have helped so many people. I'm disappointed in you Ann. — NEW HAMPSHIRE READER.

Dear Reader: I'm disappointed in myself. I have read the booklet "How To Provide for the Future" published by the National Association for Retarded Children and I should have recommended it. It would have taken a load off her mind.

I do so now — belatedly: Dear Cloudy Future, the address is National Association for Retarded Children, Inc., 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ohio Legislature To Vote On Transfer Of Agencies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation which would transfer five crime agencies from the attorney general's office to a new cabinet-level department of public safety comes up for a House vote tonight.

Democrats are expected to object to some provisions of the bill, but passage is expected in the Republican - dominated House.

The administration bill would put the Crime Commission, Bureau of Criminal Identification, Consumer Frauds and Crime Section, Division of Criminal Activities and the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council under the new department.

In addition, the bill would dissolve the Department of Highway Safety and put the Ohio Highway Patrol in the new department.

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown has endorsed the bill, but the Crime Commission opposes it.

Most objections center on the loss of investigative powers by the attorney general's office and a provision to authorize use of the highway patrol in public employe labor disputes.

The House also is scheduled to vote tonight on a bill to relieve from a person who receives an unsolicited credit card any liability if the card is used by someone else.

Floor votes are expected in the Senate tonight on three major election reform bills.

They would allow write - in votes for declared independent candidates, lower from 15 to 4 per cent of the vote cast in the last gubernatorial election the number of petitioners needed to put an independent candidate for president or vice president on the Ohio ballot, and reduce from 10 to 7 per cent the minimum vote needed to qualify a third political party.

Fifty-six bills are scheduled for hearings in the Senate this week and 101 in the House.

The Senate Judiciary Committee tonight will hear a bill to regulate giveaway games and another to provide injunctive relief against deceptive trade practices.

On Tuesday:

House Judiciary Committee hears bill to permit convicts serving life terms to be brought to trial.

House Health and Welfare Committee hears bill to establish uniform procedures for donating of organs for transplants.

House Interstate Cooperation Committee hears six bills proposing Ohio state songs.

House Damaged When Auto Skids

An auto that skidded out of control Saturday night on W. 3rd St. crashed into an oncoming car and then rammed a house, damaging it extensively.

The eastbound 1967 sedan driven by Gaetano Gioconda, 73, of Carnegie struck the westbound 1965 sedan of Judith Pamintuan, 26, of Milwaukee and then plunged into a home at 318 W. 3rd St. owned by J. D. Ervin of 327 E. 8th St., police said.

Gioconda was cited on a charge of driving at speeds too great for conditions. The collision was timed at 7:15.

GIOCONDA told Patrolman Charles Coen his car skidded out of control as he rounded a bend on W. 3rd St. near Persimmon Alley. The car crossed the center line, struck the oncoming Pamintuan car on the front and then hit it again on the left rear, officers said. Gioconda's auto crossed the street and struck the house, causing major damage to the front of the structure.

The collision damaged the entire front of Gioconda's car and the front bumper and grill and both left fenders of the other auto, which is registered to James M. Ebaugh of State Route 170, officers said.

A skid on wet pavement was blamed for another mishap at the same site 30 minutes later in which an East End man's auto struck guardrails.

The 1965 four-door sedan driven by William McKinley Wyche, 41, of 1216 Pennsylvania Ave. hit the fence on W. 3rd St. 200 feet west of Persimmon Alley at 7:45 p.m. Saturday.

Wyche told Patrolman Dwight Garvey he was driving east. When his car emerged from the Freeway section onto W. 3rd St., it skidded on wet blacktop pavemene, he reported.

TWO NEW autos on a dealer's lot were damaged Sunday night at 6 when hit by a young woman's car, police reported.

The 1963 convertible driven by Barbara Jo Thomas, 17, of 1123 Vine St. left Walnut St. and veered onto a lot at the rear of the Winland Lumber Co. property, damaging two 1969 Chevrolet sedans owned by Mike Turk, Inc., of E. 6th and Walnut Sts., officers said.

The young woman said she was traveling west on Bradshaw Ave. and turned right onto Walnut St. As she entered the intersection a red vehicle traveling north on Walnut St. crashed the right light. She said she swerved to avoid a collision and her car went over the sidewalk and into the agency's lot, striking the two new cars.

The collision damaged the left front of the Thomas car and both the left and right sides of the two new cars—a four-door sedan and a two-door sedan.

Two hit-skip crashes were reported to police over the weekend.

James Jordan of 1621 Smithfield St. reported the left rear fender and bumper of his 1963 two-door sedan were damaged early Sunday when struck by a hit-skip vehicle while parked on Marcus St. 15 feet west of Smithfield St.

Two cars were damaged in a mishap Saturday at 4:06 p.m. on E. 5th St. at Crook Alley.

The collision involved a 1965 two-door sedan driven by John Wayne Whitaker, 25, of 403 Broadway and a 1963 four-door sedan operated by Jesse F. Long, 40, of 221 W. 8th St.

Long, traveling west on E. 5th St., reported he halted at Crook Alley to pick up a passenger and his auto was struck from the rear.

Young Girl Hurt As Autos Collide

A young girl was injured in a traffic mishap Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at 5th and Washington Sts., Newell.

She is Donna Wells, stepdaughter of Donald Williams of Chester. Miss Wells was riding in a car driven by Fred Fisher of Chester which was struck by an auto driven by Maxine Wolfe of Newell. Officers said the crash resulted when the Wolfe vehicle went across the center line.

Miss Wells was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the left cheek and knee and a fractured wrist. The Wolfe woman was injured slightly, officers said.

Tall Tales Mark Unique Air Race

LONDON (AP) — The British navy won in record time, a prince tore his pants and an American entrant in the great transatlantic air race reached London in a Gay Nineties swim suit and skis.

The week-long rush between the top of the General Post Office Tower in London and the top of the Empire State Building in New York ended Sunday. There was $144,000 in prizes for winners in 21 categories and a rich harvest of tall tales and publicity for the not-so-fast.

With several prizes not yet announced, four Americans were among the winners in the competition sponsored by the London Daily Mail. The race marked the 50th anniversary of the first transatlantic flight by Sir John Alcock and Sir Arthur Brown.

The Royal Navy waited until the last day for its best of three record-breaking efforts—5 hours, 11 minutes, 22 seconds by Lt. Cmdr. Peter Goddard, 32. The 4 hours, 46 minutes and 57 seconds his Phantom supersonic jet was in the air was a record for the New York to London crossing, an average of 723.8 miles per hour. Strong tail winds helped, and Goddard refueled six times on the way from Royal Air Force flying tankers.

RAF Squadron Leader Tom Lecky-Thompson also won $14,400 for the fastest London-New York flight—6 hours, 11 minutes and 57 seconds in Harrier jump jet.

Among the nearly 400 competitors, American prizewinners were R. W. Selph, Sandy Hook, Conn., fastest subsonic aircraft London-New York, 7 hours, 6 minutes, 24 seconds, $9,600; Miss S. M. Scribner, Garden City, N.Y., New York-London unsponsored personal attempt, 6 hours, 55 minutes, 48 seconds, $6,000; Mrs. Nancy Kelly, Pennsylvania, woman light aircraft New York-London, 22 hours, 32 minutes, 57 seconds, $2,400; Stephen Wilkinson, Florida, man light aircraft London-New York, 20 hours, 23 minutes, 32 seconds, $2,400.

A group of bowler-hatted British businessmen who flew to New York May 4 rushed back home with a prize and said they also negotiated millions of dollars of export orders with the Americans.

The prize in the chartered business jet group went to Tony Drewery, 23, who clocked in at 7 hours, 3 minutes and 5 seconds —13 minutes faster than former auto racer Stirling Moss.

Several awards, including $12,000 for the most meritorious British loser, will be announced later.

The Extras That Go With A House

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You design the landscape (driveway and fence) to suit yourself. That's the builder's version.

The other version is that there's a 12-letter word—improvements — standing between you and new house enjoyment.

When you have finished dressing the barren grounds — bottom soiling, top soiling, draining, dredging, bulldozing, planning, planting, seeding — you may have a sizeable investment on your hands.

LANDSCAPING has become a costly venture, less so for the mass-project builder than for the individual. But now many house buyers have it in their laps! A good job may cost as much as the down payment on your house.

Many good - size houses being built in development areas are sans even puny trees of the kind that formerly were stuck in the grounds of low - cost housing areas.

Take a good long look at the land — tiny or large — that goes with the house you want to buy. How much will it cost to finish it? Add that figure to the price of the house.

Study the topography and note whether there are extrme variations. If you have a long, sloping, barren - looking hill down the back of the house, what will you do about it in addition to encouraging green growth? The first thought almost is to level a section for a terrace if there isn't one.

Is the house on landfill?

What are the chances of finding a pond on your front lawn some morning? (Old maps in town halls may reveal whether the base is solid, liquid or sand pit.)

MAKE A plan of the house and land and study books on the subject of landscaping. Observe other homes in the area and profit by their mistakes. How many trees, bushes and plants will give you a start to an attractive home? You'll need trees for shade as well as beauty.

You may be able to transplant some bushes or trees from your old house or from the yards of friends, but don't count on it. Transplanting is hard work, and if you plan to move a sizable tree, it may be costly to hire someone to ball and burlap it, move it to its new location and transplant it. With experienced hands, the tree should live, but the elements may be against you and your big cash outlay will be buried.

Some houses can look great with the bare minimum of inexpensive trees — those around the water and on slopes can provide charm. A pretty lawn and a few well-chosen bushes that flower at different times may be all that you'll need.

At the other extreme to house nudiy, you may admire a house set in the middle of forest-like growth which the builder is giving you the privilege of removing so that you can have the trees you want. Great. But you'll pay plenty for this privilege. The plot will thicken when you get estimates on tree removal (stumps and all).

DRIVEWAYS can gobble up cash. If the builder is leaving the finishing - off to you, figure it into the total cost along with fencing that may be needed for charm and privacy.

And you can't postpone fencing. A fence must be put up before you get to know neighbors so well that you are embarrassed about it. If you do it before you get acquainted, they'll accept it as a planned venture. If you erect a fence after you move in, and perish the thought —after the children or dogs have had a fight — they'll think of it as a hate wall.

When you get all the "extra" figures together, you will get a clearer picture of the real cost of your house. It may be, as you thought in the beginning, "dirt" cheap — after all, that is all that you are getting with it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

If a billionaire decided to count his own money it would take nearly half his lifetime. At the rate of a dollar bill a second, counting a billion (1,000 million) would require about 31.7 years of round-the-clock work without holidays. Moreover, a billion bills stacked in one pile would be 59.3 miles high.

Steel Heads Want Quotas For Imports

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Domestic steelmen still want federal quotas on shipments of foreign steel into the United States, although imports in 1969 are lower and exports are higher, Steel magazine said today.

Steel said voluntary limits set by Japanese and European producers and heavier use of steel abroad is expected to keep imports possibly 20 per cent below the record 18 million net tons shipped to the U.S. last year.

"At the same time, steel exports are seen probably hitting the fastest pace in any year since 1964, when 3.7 million net tons moved out of the country," the management weekly noted.

American steel producers will continue pressing for legislated import quotas, the magazine said, noting that some observers feel the bright foreign trade situation may be only temporary and that "prospects for legislated quotas now look better."

Steel said production of domestic mills may not crest until next month. Last week's pro-3 duction, it estimated, rose 10,000 net tons to 2,852,000 tons poured.

"Ouput for the year continues to run less than 5 per cent below that of a year ago and producers think the gap will be closed before yearend," the magazine said.

Increased bids from automotive plants and export operations pushed Steel's price composite on the No. 1 grade of steelmaking scrap up $2 to $29 a gross ton, its highest level since March, 1968.

Tips Are Offered On Ventilation In Roof For Patio

Q — Some time soon I hope to build a roof over our rear patio, using translucent fiberglass panels. A neighbor has something similar and says it is nice to have a roof which doesn't cut out all of the light yet protects from the direct rays of the sun.

However, he says that heat sometimes builds up on the underside of the roof and he is sorry that he didn't provide some sort of ventilation. Can you tell me how to handle this when I put up the roof?

A. — An important point in deciding on the method is whether your house has a sizable roof overhang. If it doesn't, the back edge of the roof is set about 8 inches under the eaves of the house and a similar distance from the house wall. Measure the overhang to find out whether this is possible.

If it is, you'll have plenty of ventilation with virtually no extra work. If it isn't, you'll have to build a small overhang about 8 inches above the new roof, using a piece of translucent fiber glass as the covering. Use aluminum flashing to prevent leaks.

Knowledgeable Dealer Worth Weight In Gold

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you have a hardware or lumber yard dealer who shows a genuine interest in giving you advice about the products he sells, hang on to him as you would a life preserver in a raging sea.

The multiplicity of items on the home repair and improvement market these days has made it increasingly difficult to keep track of what is available.

Entirely aside from the numerous brands, new types of gadgets, paints and building materials are constantly adding to the gigantic pile of purchasable choices which confront the consumer.

SOMEHOW, thousands of hardware and lumber yard owners (alas, far fewer employes) manage to keep up with the parade of products.

They seem to know instantly what they have in stock that will be of help to you, more so, it seems, than in most other businesses that deal directly with the public. Even more important, they can be of invaluable help in solving your problems. We asked one neighborhood hardware dealer why this appeared to be so.

"Because," he said, "a man doesn't go into the hardware business unless he has had plenty of practical experience in working around the house. If he does, the chances are he won't be in business very long. But people buy all kinds of other businesses without knowing very much about them. Most of the men I know who own hardware stores once made their living at some form of repair or installation work."

DO MANY customers ask for advice?

"Many do — but a lot more don't. And some of those who don't, later discover that they bought something which wasn't exactly what they wanted. A simple question at the time of purchase would have avoided the mistake. You know, many men are afraid to ask questions for fear it will show their lack of knowledge."

Does that apply to women as well?

"Not nearly as much. If women aren't sure that what they're buying is what they actually need, they'll tell you what the problem is and ask your advice. And you'd be surprised how many female customers we have, whereas years ago we wouldn't get more than one or two in a whole day."

One way to get more attention when you need advice is to shop at the hardware store or lumber yard on a weekday rather than a Saturday.

Just Change Your Name

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: If any of your readers are unhappy because they're stuck with a hideous name dreamed up by a mother who read a lot or a father who didn't read at all, please tell them they're suffering needlessly.

My mother named me Serenity. My sisters were named Beatitude and Tranqility. Our poor brother was named Fortitude. We hated our names but we went through school with them just the same.

A few weeks ago I met a boy I liked very much. He said his name was Dick. After several hours of conversation he admitted that his real name was Shirley but he changed it when he was 15 because the teachers kept looking for a girl.

I asked him how he went about changing his name. He said, "Simple, I just stopped using Shirley and started to use Dick."

I asked if he had to take any legal steps and he said "No. In Illinois a person can use any name he wants to if he isn't using it for illegal purposes.

I wish my brother and sisters and I had known this 10 years ago. Let your readers in on it. — FORMERLY SERENITY NOW LINDA.

—:—

Dear Linda: In most states you can go from Shirley to Dick or Serenity to Linda without any legal procedure. I suggest a call to city hall, however, to make certain the law in your state is the same.

No Bike For Two

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 14 who is having a big misunderstanding with my mother.

When I was about 9 years old my mother bought me a bike. It has been in the cellar for two years. I have a chance to sell the bike for $20. My mother says the $20 belongs to her because she bought the bike with her own money. I say the $20 belongs to me because the bike was a birthday present.

I told Mom I'd be happy to settle for half but she says I'm not entitled to anything.

I suggested writing to you and letting you decide. Mom said, "Write if you want to but I don't give a hoot what Ann Landers says. My mind is made up."

I'd like to know your opinion anyway. — SCRANTON SCRAMBLE.

Dear S.S. : Your mother didn't lend you the bike, she gave it to you. If you sell it, the money should be yours. Since her mind is made up, accept her decision graciously. She may be wrong but she's still your mother.

Helpful Hint

Dear Ann: Your answer to the troubled girl who signed herself "Cloudy Future" could have been a lot better. She was worried about what would become of her retarded and crippled brother when her parents passed on.

Why didn't you tell her to write to the American Association for Retarded Children? They have helped so many people. I'm disappointed in you Ann. — NEW HAMPSHIRE READER.

Dear Reader: I'm disappointed in myself. I have read the booklet "How To Provide for the Future" published by the National Association for Retarded Children and I should have recommended it. It would have taken a load off her mind.

I do so now — belatedly: Dear Cloudy Future, the address is National Association for Retarded Children, Inc., 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ohio Legislature To Vote On Transfer Of Agencies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation which would transfer five crime agencies from the attorney general's office to a new cabinet-level department of public safety comes up for a House vote tonight.

Democrats are expected to object to some provisions of the bill, but passage is expected in the Republican - dominated House.

The administration bill would put the Crime Commission, Bureau of Criminal Identification, Consumer Frauds and Crime Section, Division of Criminal Activities and the Ohio Peace Officer Training Council under the new department.

In addition, the bill would dissolve the Department of Highway Safety and put the Ohio Highway Patrol in the new department.

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown has endorsed the bill, but the Crime Commission opposes it.

Most objections center on the loss of investigative powers by the attorney general's office and a provision to authorize use of the highway patrol in public employe labor disputes.

The House also is scheduled to vote tonight on a bill to relieve from a person who receives an unsolicited credit card any liability if the card is used by someone else.

Floor votes are expected in the Senate tonight on three major election reform bills.

They would allow write - in votes for declared independent candidates, lower from 15 to 4 per cent of the vote cast in the last gubernatorial election the number of petitioners needed to put an independent candidate for president or vice president on the Ohio ballot, and reduce from 10 to 7 per cent the minimum vote needed to qualify a third political party.

Fifty-six bills are scheduled for hearings in the Senate this week and 101 in the House.

The Senate Judiciary Committee tonight will hear a bill to regulate giveaway games and another to provide injunctive relief against deceptive trade practices.

On Tuesday:

House Judiciary Committee hears bill to permit convicts serving life terms to be brought to trial.

House Health and Welfare Committee hears bill to establish uniform procedures for donating of organs for transplants.

House Interstate Cooperation Committee hears six bills proposing Ohio state songs.

By Cecil Smith

McKuen Is Mendelson's Latest Sonata

BURLINGAME, Calif. — The question is: Can an ambitious young producer find happiness and success here, 500 miles from Hollywood where 95 per cent of all television is produced?

Cecil Smith

The answer is Lee Mendelson, a brash, 35-year-old whipcord of a man who not only functions (and functions) well from this suburban bedroom of San Francisco but even carries the slogan on his stationary: "Burlingame Eentertainment Capital of the World."

-:-

ALL the entertainment made in Burlingame (for public display) is produced by Mendelson and five co-workers. Out of that tiny shop has come the best fashion show I ever saw on television, "The Wonderful World of Pizzazz," John Steinbeck's "Travels With Charley" and his "America and Americans," "The Fabulous Funnies," "Children's Letters to God," "A Man Named Mays," and, in partnership with animator Bill Melendez (in Hollywood), "Babar the Elephant" and the fantastically successful series of Charlie Brown specias.

Not only has Mendelson proved he can do his thing here and make the networks like it, he now has the prestige and the Nielsen track record to call his shots.

Take, for example, his latest special, "Rod McKuen: The Loner," which NBC offers Saturday night (Channel 3 at 8:30). Something like the following conversation took place with the network:

NBC: "It's about a poet?"

LEE: "He's a sensation with young people. He hits them where they live."

NBC: "Yeah, but a poet . . . but then he also sings."

LEE: "He only signs his own songs because he says his voice is so lousy he won't ruin somebody else's music."

NBC: "Who are the guest stars?"

LEE: "None."

NBC: "What do you mean none? You can't do a special without guest stars!"

LEE: "It's about McKuen. If you have guest stars, it would be about them, too. I don't want that, I just want McKuen."

LEE: "I do."

MENDELSON, a third-generation San Franciscan with a deep and abiding love for this city of the Golden Gate, is a Stanford graduate and Air Force navigator who came home in 1957 determined to work in television.

He could get nowhere, however; he even was turned down when he offered to work free for KQED, San Francisco's educational TV station.

Finally, in 1962, he was hired by KPIX, the Westinghouse station, to make 10-second public service films. One of them gave him an idea of doing a documentary on the building of the Golden Gate Bridge.

The station okayed the plan and in two years Mendelson made 82 documentaries, one of which won the prestigious Peabody Award. He and his cameraman Sheldon Fay Jr. left to form their own company and dare the network battlements.

THEIR FIRST SHOW was that memorable portrait of Willie Mays, "A Man Named Mays," which they sold to NBC.

What they did for Mays, they tried to do with Charlie Chulz, creator of Charlie Brown. They got nowhere with their documentary, but sold the idea of the series of Charlie Brown cartoon specials, which have reaped astronomical ratings on CBS.

Mendelson's productions have won two Emmys and a second Peabody Award. He's sighed a major contract to provide a series of Encyclopadeia Britannica documentaries for NBC; he has a new Charlie Brown TV feature for fall and a feature-length Charlie Brown movie which will hit the theaters next Christmas; he's doing a documentary on how to avoid burglary starring Don Adams, and "It Couldn't Be Done," a tribute to the builders of impossible projects, like the Golden Gate Bridge.

"People ask why I want to work here instead of Hollywood," said Mendelson, "but look at the three people who made my company — Willie Mays plays ball here; Schulz draws Charlie Brown here, and this was ever Steinbeck's land."

56 Bales Of Hay And Straw Taken

LISBON — Randall Ridgway, owner of the former Galen Bowman farm on Route 172, north of the County Home, notified the sheriff's office Sunday night of the theft of 56 bales of hay and straw from a shed.

He told Deputy Robert Wellington he returned to the farm at 8:40 last night after being gone several hours and noticed tire tracks leading to the shed. Nothing else in the shed was disturbed, he said.

Wellington said he talked with Stella Beadnell, a tenant, and she told him she saw a blue pickup truck backed up at the shed when she drove out the lane about 5 p.m. yesterday.

She said a tall, gray-haired man in a checkered shirt was sitting on bales in the truck and waved to her as she went by. She said she did not recognize him.

Street Closed For Workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Office workers who choose between fighting through crowded lunchtime sidewalks or dodging cars on narrow streets will have a respite next week.

A five-block stretch of 20-foot-wide Nassau Street, between City Hall and the financial district, will be closed to traffic from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., providing thousands of workers with a pedestrian mall. The experiment will last three months.

Will Meet In Lisbon

LISBON — Council will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Town Hall, with Mayor Clyde B. Pike in charge.

Grange Tribute Paid To Mothers At West Point

WEST POINT — A Mother's Day theme predominated during Friday night's meeting of the West Point Grange.

Philip Carnes, master, presided during the business session.

Mrs. Pozenel, women's activity chairman, reviewed rules for the sewing and baking contest; a letter was read from Marcie Barnett inviting members to the County Grange Youth meeting Friday at Guilford Grange Hall; announcement was made of the county officers' conference tonight at 8:30 at West Point, and plans were completed for a work night Wednesday at the hall by men of the grange.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Leatherberry of Lisbon RD 2 will observe their 45th wedding anniversary on May 19, it was announced.

Bayard Grange will take the traveling flag to Yellow Crek on May 15.

Mrs. Steffen and Mrs. Martin were in charge of lunch. The next meeting will be May 23.

The Extras That Go With A House

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You design the landscape (driveway and fence) to suit yourself. That's the builder's version.

The other version is that there's a 12-letter word—improvements — standing between you and new house enjoyment.

When you have finished dressing the barren grounds — bottom soiling, top soiling, draining, dredging, bulldozing, planning, planting, seeding — you may have a sizeable investment on your hands.

LANDSCAPING has become a costly venture, less so for the mass-project builder than for the individual. But now many house buyers have it in their laps! A good job may cost as much as the down payment on your house.

Many good - size houses being built in development areas are sans even puny trees of the kind that formerly were stuck in the grounds of low - cost housing areas.

Take a good long look at the land — tiny or large — that goes with the house you want to buy. How much will it cost to finish it? Add that figure to the price of the house.

Study the topography and note whether there are extrme variations. If you have a long, sloping, barren - looking hill down the back of the house, what will you do about it in addition to encouraging green growth? The first thought almost is to level a section for a terrace if there isn't one.

Is the house on landfill?

What are the chances of finding a pond on your front lawn some morning? (Old maps in town halls may reveal whether the base is solid, liquid or sand pit.)

MAKE A plan of the house and land and study books on the subject of landscaping. Observe other homes in the area and profit by their mistakes. How many trees, bushes and plants will give you a start to an attractive home? You'll need trees for shade as well as beauty.

You may be able to transplant some bushes or trees from your old house or from the yards of friends, but don't count on it. Transplanting is hard work, and if you plan to move a sizable tree, it may be costly to hire someone to ball and burlap it, move it to its new location and transplant it. With experienced hands, the tree should live, but the elements may be against you and your big cash outlay will be buried.

Some houses can look great with the bare minimum of inexpensive trees — those around the water and on slopes can provide charm. A pretty lawn and a few well-chosen bushes that flower at different times may be all that you'll need.

At the other extreme to house nudiy, you may admire a house set in the middle of forest-like growth which the builder is giving you the privilege of removing so that you can have the trees you want. Great. But you'll pay plenty for this privilege. The plot will thicken when you get estimates on tree removal (stumps and all).

DRIVEWAYS can gobble up cash. If the builder is leaving the finishing - off to you, figure it into the total cost along with fencing that may be needed for charm and privacy.

And you can't postpone fencing. A fence must be put up before you get to know neighbors so well that you are embarrassed about it. If you do it before you get acquainted, they'll accept it as a planned venture. If you erect a fence after you move in, and perish the thought —after the children or dogs have had a fight — they'll think of it as a hate wall.

When you get all the "extra" figures together, you will get a clearer picture of the real cost of your house. It may be, as you thought in the beginning, "dirt" cheap — after all, that is all that you are getting with it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

If a billionaire decided to count his own money it would take nearly half his lifetime. At the rate of a dollar bill a second, counting a billion (1,000 million) would require about 31.7 years of round-the-clock work without holidays. Moreover, a billion bills stacked in one pile would be 59.3 miles high.

Steel Heads Want Quotas For Imports

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Domestic steelmen still want federal quotas on shipments of foreign steel into the United States, although imports in 1969 are lower and exports are higher, Steel magazine said today.

Steel said voluntary limits set by Japanese and European producers and heavier use of steel abroad is expected to keep imports possibly 20 per cent below the record 18 million net tons shipped to the U.S. last year.

"At the same time, steel exports are seen probably hitting the fastest pace in any year since 1964, when 3.7 million net tons moved out of the country," the management weekly noted.

American steel producers will continue pressing for legislated import quotas, the magazine said, noting that some observers feel the bright foreign trade situation may be only temporary and that "prospects for legislated quotas now look better."

Steel said production of domestic mills may not crest until next month. Last week's pro-3 duction, it estimated, rose 10,000 net tons to 2,852,000 tons poured.

"Ouput for the year continues to run less than 5 per cent below that of a year ago and producers think the gap will be closed before yearend," the magazine said.

Increased bids from automotive plants and export operations pushed Steel's price composite on the No. 1 grade of steelmaking scrap up $2 to $29 a gross ton, its highest level since March, 1968.

Tips Are Offered On Ventilation In Roof For Patio

AP Newsfeatures

Q — Some time soon I hope to build a roof over our rear patio, using translucent fiberglass panels. A neighbor has something similar and says it is nice to have a roof which doesn't cut out all of the light yet protects from the direct rays of the sun.

However, he says that heat sometimes builds up on the underside of the roof and he is sorry that he didn't provide some sort of ventilation. Can you tell me how to handle this when I put up the roof?

A. — An important point in deciding on the method is whether your house has a sizable roof overhang. If it doesn't, the back edge of the roof is set about 8 inches under the eaves of the house and a similar distance from the house wall. Measure the overhang to find out whether this is possible.

If it is, you'll have plenty of ventilation with virtually no extra work. If it isn't, you'll have to build a small overhang about 8 inches above the new roof, using a piece of translucent fiber glass as the covering. Use aluminum flashing to prevent leaks.

Knowledgeable Dealer Worth Weight In Gold

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you have a hardware or lumber yard dealer who shows a genuine interest in giving you advice about the products he sells, hang on to him as you would a life preserver in a raging sea.

The multiplicity of items on the home repair and improvement market these days has made it increasingly difficult to keep track of what is available.

Entirely aside from the numerous brands, new types of gadgets, paints and building materials are constantly adding to the gigantic pile of purchasable choices which confront the consumer.

SOMEHOW, thousands of hardware and lumber yard owners (alas, far fewer employes) manage to keep up with the parade of products.

They seem to know instantly what they have in stock that will be of help to you, more so, it seems, than in most other businesses that deal directly with the public. Even more important, they can be of invaluable help in solving your problems. We asked one neighborhood hardware dealer why this appeared to be so.

"Because," he said, "a man doesn't go into the hardware business unless he has had plenty of practical experience in working around the house. If he does, the chances are he won't be in business very long. But people buy all kinds of other businesses without knowing very much about them. Most of the men I know who own hardware stores once made their living at some form of repair or installation work."

DO MANY customers ask for advice?

"Many do — but a lot more don't. And some of those who don't, later discover that they bought something which wasn't exactly what they wanted. A simple question at the time of purchase would have avoided the mistake. You know, many men are afraid to ask questions for fear it will show their lack of knowledge."

Does that apply to women as well?

"Not nearly as much. If women aren't sure that what they're buying is what they actually need, they'll tell you what the problem is and ask your advice. And you'd be surprised how many female customers we have, whereas years ago we wouldn't get more than one or two in a whole day."

One way to get more attention when you need advice is to shop at the hardware store or lumber yard on a weekday rather than a Saturday.

Petrocelli's HRs Pace Boston Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston shortstop drove a ball over the left field wall with a man on in the fourth inning and then connected again with a mate aboard in the sixth Sunday in leading the Red Sox to a 7-3 victory over the California Angels.

It was the third Sunday out of five this season Petrocelli has won games with two-run homers.

He hit one April 13 to wipe a 1-0 Cleveland lead in a 3-1 Boston victory and another in the 11th inning May 4 for a 4-2 victory over Detroit.

In other American League action Sunday, Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-0, Oakland downed the New York Yankees 2-0, Detroit nipped Minnesota 3-2, Seattle edged Washington 6-5, and the Chicago White Sox topped Cleveland 7-5.

Petrocelli's two homers, his ninth and 10th of the season, just two less than he hit all last year, powered the Red Sox to their eighth straigh victory and kept them a game behind first-place Baltimore in the American League's East Division.

The 25-year-old veteran, who hit .234 and drove in 46 runs in 1968, now has the second-best average of .360 in the American League and 16 RBI. He also has fielded flawlessly in all 29 games and has an errorless streak of 33, 20 less than the American League record set by Chico Carrasquel with the White Sox.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, a shutout victim twice in a row after winning his first three decisions, did the blanking this time, stopping Kansas City on three hits. Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer for the Orioles, his 11th of the season and first since April 30. Oakland's sixth straight victory moved the Athletics to within 12 percentage points of first-place Minnesota in the West Division.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter yielded just three hits in sending New York to its fourth consecutive loss and 11th in the last 12 games. Bert Campaneris and Hunter drove in the Oakland runs.

Denny McLain, 5-3, drove in the deciding run for Detroit against Minnesota. McLain, who got relief held from Pat Dobson, gave Detroit a 3-0 lead with an RBI single in the sixth. Jim Price and Al Kaline homered for Detroit and Tony Oliva connected for Minnesota.

Frank Howard blasted his 12th and 13th homers, the second coming with a man in the seventh to give Washington a 5-5 tie, but Seattle won the game when Don Mincher homered in the ninth. Howard also singled in a run for the Senators, who have lost five straight.

Chicago sent Cleveland reeling to its 21st loss in the 25 games when Sandy Alomar broke a 4-4 tie with a three-run double in the eighth. Ken Berry then protected the margin by making a great catch of a long drive by Cleveland's Rich Scheinblum with a man on in the ninth.

Schmidt, Young Star, Clippers 3rd

The old mark, set in 1937, was 2 1-6. Young also won the high hurdle race and Gary Schmidt of the Clippers took the 100 and 220. Schmidt was named the top performer of the meet, as he scored 12¾ points.

Despite these heroics, Columbiana finished third, behind Kent State High and Lakeview. Kent had 44½, Lakeview 44 and Columbiana 31. Crestview placed fifth with 18 points.

Cubs Sweep SF, Leads Bucs By 3

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Faced with a moment of truth for the second time in 24 hours, Bob Skinner did some quick figuring and decided to take the Baby Bull by the horns again.

When the dust settled, there was blood on the sand-and the scoreboard read: Bull 2, Skinner 0.

The gambit backfired, just as it had the previous night, when Orlando Cepeda smacked a run-scoring single that gave the Braves a 4-3 victory and extended the Phillies' losing string to four games.

"It's the same tune with a little different script," muttered Skinner, who had put Aaron on in a similar ninth-inning situation Saturday night before Cepeda's three-run homer wrecked the Phils 6-3.

Sunday's victory boosted the Braves' National League West Division lead to two games over Los Angeles, which was rained out at Pittsburgh.

The Chicago Cubs mauled San Francisco 8-0 for a three-game East Division lead over the idle Pirates; San Diego stunned St. Louis 4-2 and Houston divided a doubleheader with the New York Mets, winning 4-1 before bowing 11-7. Cincinnati and Montreal also were rained out.

Cepeda has collected 26 hits in 29 games, but has driven in 25 runs—10 more than Aaron. Saturday night's homer, which capped a four-run ninth-inning comeback, was his seventh of the year.

Randy Hundley delivered three runs with a homer and single and Billy Williams poled a two-run homer as the Cubs trounced the Giants behind lefthander Ken Holtzman. Holtzman scattered nine hits for his fifth victory against one loss.

Chris Cannizzaro smashed a tie-breaking, two-run double with two out in the ninth, carrying the Padres past the Cardinals, who have lost 14 of 17 games at home. Nate Colbert's two-run homer tied the game in the seventh. Veteran reliever Jack Baldshun pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth to earn his fourth victory without a loss.

Larry Dierker fired a five hitter and Jim Wynn clubbed a two-run homer in the Astros' first-game victory at New York. But Houston's pitching and defense fell apart in the nightcap, contributing 12 walks and three errors, while Tommie Agee's second and third homers of the day paced a 12-hit Met attack.

Birdies First Extra Hole

Beman Wins Texas Open In Playoff Over McGowan

"No day of rest for me," Beman said after beating veteran Jack McGowan in a sudden death playoff for the $20,000 first prize Sunday on the first extra hole. "It's back to the practice tee, back to the drawing boards.

"Winning is something very special, and, of course, I'm very happy," the 31-year-old former U.S. and British Amateur champion said.

"But I won it with my chipping and my putter. I've tried to play so that when I finally did win a tournament, I'd win it with all my clubs. But I guess when it comes time to win, you're going to win."

He won it with rounds of 70 and a course-record-matching 65 on the 7,138 yard, par 71 Pecan Valley Country Club course, then rammed in a 20-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole for his first professional victory.

"That putt was just like the one against (Arnold) Palmer," Beman, 31, said. A pro only since 1967, he lost a playoff to Palmer in the Bob Hope Classic that year.

"I told myself, 'Well, you missed it once, now you've got a second chance at it.'"

He made it, but he got the second chance only because of a heartbreaking lapse by the weather-beaten, dour little McGowan, a pro for 18 years whose only victory was in the 1964 Mountain View Open.

McGowan, four strokes ahead at the turn, watched that dwindle to a single stroke going to the last hole. Beman was in the clubhouse.He needed an 18-inch putt to nail down his biggest payday ever. And, incredibly, he missed it.

Midland's Sim Hill was scheduled to play in a tournament in Hawaii after his basketball season at West Texas State was over, but he never made it.

His plane stopped in Los Angeles, and representatives of the LA Stars of the American Basketball Association, who had drafted him number one, induced him to go to Hawaii, where representatives of the Chicago Bulls of the NBA, who had also drafted Hill, were waiting. Hill eventually signed with Los Angeles.

Ron Taylor of Southern California was signed by the Oakland Oaks. Taylor, 7-1, said, "I think I can become the Wilt Chamberlain of the ABA." Taylor did have fair success, at least more than anyone else, in battles with Lew Alcindor during their college careers

Chamberlain, before the final loss to Boston, dropped some hints that he has been approached by the ABA The Lakers contend Wilt has a five-year contract with them, however.

MINNIE MINOSO, long-time major leaguer, is playing in the Mexican League and homered in his first at-bat this season. Former Pirate Dick Stuart, after two years of playing baseball in Japan, was off to an .087 start with the California Angels.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S Bruce Christian is listed as the second team defensive end at Eastern Michigan U., but his status may improve. Coach Dick Boisture says Christian has come on strong during spring practice drills. "He reminds me a lot of George Webster," says Boisture. "He is not just a hard hitter, he is a lethal hitter. He comes at you like a spear."

BILL THOMPSON of Weirton, who starred for Bob Starkey at Shepherd State this season, was taken by the Baltimore Bullets in the NBA draft.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

McKuen Is Mendelson's Latest Sonata

BURLINGAME, Calif. — The question is: Can an ambitious young producer find happiness and success here, 500 miles from Hollywood where 95 per cent of all television is produced?

Cecil Smith

The answer is Lee Mendelson, a brash, 35-year-old whipcord of a man who not only functions (and functions) well from this suburban bedroom of San Francisco but even carries the slogan on his stationary: "Burlingame Eentertainment Capital of the World."

-:-

ALL the entertainment made in Burlingame (for public display) is produced by Mendelson and five co-workers. Out of that tiny shop has come the best fashion show I ever saw on television, "The Wonderful World of Pizzazz," John Steinbeck's "Travels With Charley" and his "America and Americans," "The Fabulous Funnies," "Children's Letters to God," "A Man Named Mays," and, in partnership with animator Bill Melendez (in Hollywood), "Babar the Elephant" and the fantastically successful series of Charlie Brown specias.

Not only has Mendelson proved he can do his thing here and make the networks like it, he now has the prestige and the Nielsen track record to call his shots.

Take, for example, his latest special, "Rod McKuen: The Loner," which NBC offers Saturday night (Channel 3 at 8:30). Something like the following conversation took place with the network:

NBC: "It's about a poet?"

LEE: "He's a sensation with young people. He hits them where they live."

NBC: "Yeah, but a poet . . . but then he also sings."

LEE: "He only signs his own songs because he says his voice is so lousy he won't ruin somebody else's music."

NBC: "Who are the guest stars?"

LEE: "None."

NBC: "What do you mean none? You can't do a special without guest stars!"

LEE: "It's about McKuen. If you have guest stars, it would be about them, too. I don't want that, I just want McKuen."

LEE: "I do."

MENDELSON, a third-generation San Franciscan with a deep and abiding love for this city of the Golden Gate, is a Stanford graduate and Air Force navigator who came home in 1957 determined to work in television.

He could get nowhere, however; he even was turned down when he offered to work free for KQED, San Francisco's educational TV station.

Finally, in 1962, he was hired by KPIX, the Westinghouse station, to make 10-second public service films. One of them gave him an idea of doing a documentary on the building of the Golden Gate Bridge.

The station okayed the plan and in two years Mendelson made 82 documentaries, one of which won the prestigious Peabody Award. He and his cameraman Sheldon Fay Jr. left to form their own company and dare the network battlements.

THEIR FIRST SHOW was that memorable portrait of Willie Mays, "A Man Named Mays," which they sold to NBC.

What they did for Mays, they tried to do with Charlie Chulz, creator of Charlie Brown. They got nowhere with their documentary, but sold the idea of the series of Charlie Brown cartoon specials, which have reaped astronomical ratings on CBS.

Mendelson's productions have won two Emmys and a second Peabody Award. He's sighed a major contract to provide a series of Encyclopadeia Britannica documentaries for NBC; he has a new Charlie Brown TV feature for fall and a feature-length Charlie Brown movie which will hit the theaters next Christmas; he's doing a documentary on how to avoid burglary starring Don Adams, and "It Couldn't Be Done," a tribute to the builders of impossible projects, like the Golden Gate Bridge.

"People ask why I want to work here instead of Hollywood," said Mendelson, "but look at the three people who made my company — Willie Mays plays ball here; Schulz draws Charlie Brown here, and this was ever Steinbeck's land."

56 Bales Of Hay And Straw Taken

LISBON — Randall Ridgway, owner of the former Galen Bowman farm on Route 172, north of the County Home, notified the sheriff's office Sunday night of the theft of 56 bales of hay and straw from a shed.

He told Deputy Robert Wellington he returned to the farm at 8:40 last night after being gone several hours and noticed tire tracks leading to the shed. Nothing else in the shed was disturbed, he said.

Wellington said he talked with Stella Beadnell, a tenant, and she told him she saw a blue pickup truck backed up at the shed when she drove out the lane about 5 p.m. yesterday.

She said a tall, gray-haired man in a checkered shirt was sitting on bales in the truck and waved to her as she went by. She said she did not recognize him.

Steelers, Browns, Colts Move To AFL In Realignment

Bengals, Oilers Fill Area Division

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The best kept secret in pro football history is out, and Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh are in—the American Football League.

The switch of the three National League teams were made Saturday night, solving pro football's realignment problem for 1970 by creating two 13-team conferences.

Actually, agreement on the moving trio was reached at about midnight Friday, and the AFL realigned itself into three divisions within 45 minutes.

The decisions, however, were kept secret for 21 hours, until 10 o'clock Saturday night when Commissioner Pete Rozelle disclosed them to the world.

"All day I was scared that it would leak out," Rozelle said. "I didn't have much confidence that we could keep it secret."

Why did he keep it a secret instead of announcing it immediately?

"We wanted to do it in a package," the commissioner said. "We wanted so desperately to make it a package. We just wanted to wrap the whole bit up."

What Rozelle meant was he was waiting for the NFL to realign itself from four divisions of four teams each into two groups of four and one of five.

But while the remaining 13 club owners tried unsuccessfully to do that, the AFL owners continued meeting under voluntary house arrest at the plush pro football offices on Park Avenue while two blocks away, at the St. Regis Hotel, disheveled newsmen waited like expectant fathers all night and all day.

When the announcement finally came, most people were surprised. And, as could have been expected, fans in the three cities wtre not wildly enthusiastic about the developments.

The surprise came because the AFL got the NFL's defending champion, Baltimore, and its defending Eastern Conference titlist, Cleveland.

Baltimore had been considered a possibility, but certainly not with another NFL power. Pittsburgh, meanwhile, moved in tandem with the Browns.

"I would not move unless the Steelers moved," Art Modell, president of the Browns, said from his bed in New York's Doctors' Hospital, where he is resting his ulcers. The Steelers and Browns have had a strong rivalry going for years.

"Actually, there were two conditions. We had to be in the same division with Pittsburgh and we had to be in the same division with Cincinnati."

Those three teams are in one division, with Houston the fourth team. Baltimore is grouped with the world champion New York Jets, whom they lost to in the Super Bowl, Miami, Buffalo and Boston. The third division has Oakland, Kansas City, San Diego and Denver.

Modell's desire to be linked with Cincinnati is interesting because he is the man who fired the Bengals' boss, Paul Brown, as Cleveland coach in 1963. They since have been pictured as hostile to each other.

But Modell said: "We're very good friends. We're not going to get out on the field and duel. Cleveland and Cincinnati is a natural rivalry, a good intro-state rivalry that will endure for years after we're gone."

Johnny Unitas of Baltimore and Leroy Kelly of Cleveland also will be gone after some years, but for the immediate future, 1970, they are two of the NFL's superstars who will be playing in the AFL, or American Conference, as it probably will be called.

Besides getting these glamor guys, the AFL gets the best home drawing team in pro football—the Browns average about 80,000 a game; the No. 1 attraction, the powerful Colts with Unitas, John Mackey, etc., and a new stadium, Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, with a 53,000 capacity.

In return, each of the three teams will get somewhere from $2 million to $3 million as indemnity for moving to be subsidized by the remaining NFL clubs; owner Carroll Rosenbloom gets a permanent crack at the Jets, and the Steelers get a chance for a fresh start after 36 nonchampionship years in the NFL.

"One of the big things, as far as we're concerned," Rosenbloom said, "is that Baltimore has a natural rivalry now and for what we think will be a long time with the Jets. They beat us, and this is the only way we can get back."

The Steelers are one of the oldest NFL teams, having entered the league in 1933, and their owner, Art Rooney, is one of the best-liked men in the game.

"It's hard for him emotionally to accept that he's leaving the National Conference," said his son, Dan, the team's vice president. "But it's one league, and we're just playing in the American Conference."

As expected, the three teams began getting reaction from their fans immediately.

"I'm kind of disappointed because I don't think the quality of the games will be as good," said Bob Walters of Pittsburgh, who has watched the Steelers struggle to a 40-66-6 record in the eight years he has been a season ticket-holder.

"The Browns were knifed in the back by the NFL and Pete Rozelle," said Robert Crowed of Brookpark, Ohio. Added Nathaniel Flynt of Cleveland, "I think it stinks." "Is there any way it can be rescinded?" asked Roger Hedberg of Cleveland.

Petrocelli's HRs Pace Boston Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some people drive cars for Sunday relaxation. Rico Petrocelli drives baseballs for game-winning, two-run homers.

The Boston shortstop drove a ball over the left field wall with a man on in the fourth inning and then connected again with a mate aboard in the sixth Sunday in leading the Red Sox to a 7-3 victory over the California Angels.

It was the third Sunday out of five this season Petrocelli has won games with two-run homers.

He hit one April 13 to wipe a 1-0 Cleveland lead in a 3-1 Boston victory and another in the 11th inning May 4 for a 4-2 victory over Detroit.

In other American League action Sunday, Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-0, Oakland downed the New York Yankees 2-0, Detroit nipped Minnesota 3-2, Seattle edged Washington 6-5, and the Chicago White Sox topped Cleveland 7-5.

Petrocelli's two homers, his ninth and 10th of the season, just two less than he hit all last year, powered the Red Sox to their eighth straigh victory and kept them a game behind first-place Baltimore in the American League's East Division.

The 25-year-old veteran, who hit .234 and drove in 46 runs in 1968, now has the second-best average of .360 in the American League and 16 RBI. He also has fielded flawlessly in all 29 games and has an errorless streak of 33, 20 less than the American League record set by Chico Carrasquel with the White Sox.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, a shutout victim twice in a row after winning his first three decisions, did the blanking this time, stopping Kansas City on three hits. Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer for the Orioles, his 11th of the season and first since April 30. Oakland's sixth straight victory moved the Athletics to within 12 percentage points of first-place Minnesota in the West Division.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter yielded just three hits in sending New York to its fourth consecutive loss and 11th in the last 12 games. Bert Campaneris and Hunter drove in the Oakland runs.

Denny McLain, 5-3, drove in the deciding run for Detroit against Minnesota. McLain, who got relief held from Pat Dobson, gave Detroit a 3-0 lead with an RBI single in the sixth. Jim Price and Al Kaline homered for Detroit and Tony Oliva connected for Minnesota.

Frank Howard blasted his 12th and 13th homers, the second coming with a man in the seventh to give Washington a 5-5 tie, but Seattle won the game when Don Mincher homered in the ninth. Howard also singled in a run for the Senators, who have lost five straight.

Chicago sent Cleveland reeling to its 21st loss in the 25 games when Sandy Alomar broke a 4-4 tie with a three-run double in the eighth. Ken Berry then protected the margin by making a great catch of a long drive by Cleveland's Rich Scheinblum with a man on in the ninth.

The old mark, set in 1937, was 2 1-6. Young also won the high hurdle race and Gary Schmidt of the Clippers took the 100 and 220. Schmidt was named the top performer of the meet, as he scored 12¾ points.

Despite these heroies, Columbiana finished third, behind Kent State High and Lakeview. Kent had 44½, Lakeview 44 and Columbiana 31. Crestview placed fifth with 18 points.

Cubs Sweep SF, Leads Bucs By 3

Faced with a moment of truth for the second time in 24 hours, Bob Skinner did some quick figuring and decided to take the Baby Bull by the horns again.

When the dust settled, there was blood on the sand-and the scoreboard read: Bull 2, Skinner 0.

The gambit backfired, just as it had the previous night, when Orlando Cepeda smacked a run-scoring single that gave the Braves a 4-3 victory and extended the Phillies' losing string to four games.

"It's the same tune with a little different script," muttered Skinner, who had put Aaron on in a similar ninth-inning situation Saturday night before Cepeda's three-run homer wrecked the Phils 6-3.

Sunday's victory boosted the Braves' National League West Division lead to two games over Los Angeles, which was rained out at Pittsburgh.

The Chicago Cubs mauled San Francisco 8-0 for a three-game East Division lead over the idle Pirates; San Diego stunned St. Louis 4-2 and Houston divided a doubleheader with the New York Mets, winning 4-1 before bowing 11-7. Cincinnati and Montreal also were rained out.

After Philadelphia rallied for two eighth-inning runs to catch the Braves, Felipe Alou opened the ninth with a single off reliever Dick Farrell and took second on a ground out.

Cepeda has collected 26 hits in 29 games, but has driven in 25 runs—10 more than Aaron. Saturday night's homer, which capped a four-run ninth-inning comeback, was his seventh of the year.

Randy Hundley delivered three runs with a homer and single and Billy Williams poled a two-run homer as the Cubs trounced the Giants behind left-hander Ken Holtzman. Holtzman scattered nine hits for his fifth victory against one loss.

Chris Cannizzaro smashed a tie-breaking, two-run double with two out in the ninth, carrying the Padres past the Cardinals, who have lost 14 of 17 games at home. Nate Colbert's two-run homer tied the game in the seventh. Veteran reliever Jack Baldshun pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the eighth to earn his fourth victory without a loss.

Larry Dierker fired a five hitter and Jim Wynn clubbed a two-run homer in the Astros' first-game victory at New York. But Houston's pitching and defense fell apart in the nightcap, contributing 12 walks and three errors, while Tommie Agee's second and third homers of the day paced a 12-hit Met attack.

Birdies First Extra Hole

Beman Wins Texas Open In Playoff Over McGowan

"No day of rest for me," Beman said after beating veteran Jack McGowan in a sudden death playoff for the $20,000 first prize Sunday on the first extra hole. "It's back to the practice tee, back to the drawing boards.

"Winning is something very special, and, of course, I'm very happy," the 31-year-old former U.S. and British Amateur champion said.

"But I won it with my chipping and my putter. I've tried to play so that when I finally did win a tournament, I'd win it with all my clubs. But I guess when it comes time to win, you're going to win."

He won it with rounds of 70 and a course-record-matching 65 on the 7,138 yard, par 71 Pecan Valley Country Club course, then rammed in a 20-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole for his first professional victory.

"That putt was just like the one against (Arnold) Palmer," Beman, 31, said. A pro only since 1967, he lost a playoff to Palmer in the Bob Hope Classic that year.

"I told myself, 'Well, you missed it once, now you've got a second chance at it.'"

He made it, but he got the second chance only because of a heartbreaking lapse by the weather-beaten, dour little McGowan, a pro for 18 years whose only victory was in the 1964 Mountain View Open.

McGowan, four strokes ahead at the turn, watched that dwindle to a single stroke going to the last hole. Beman was in the clubhouse.He needed an 18-inch putt to nail down his biggest payday ever. And, incredibly, he missed it.

Midland's Sim Hill was scheduled to play in a tournament in Hawaii after his basketball season at West Texas State was over, but he never made it.

His plane stopped in Los Angeles, and representatives of the LA Stars of the American Basketball Association, who had drafted him number one, induced him to go to Hawaii, where representatives of the Chicago Bulls of the NBA, who had also drafted Hill, were waiting. Hill eventually signed with Los Angeles.

Ron Taylor of Southern California was signed by the Oakland Oaks. Taylor, 7-1, said, "I think I can become the Wilt Chamberlain of the ABA." Taylor did have fair success, at least more than anyone else, in battles with Lew Alcindor during their college careers

Chamberlain, before the final loss to Boston, dropped some hints that he has been approached by the ABA. The Lakers contend Wilt has a five-year contract with them, however.

MINNIE MINOSO, long-time major leaguer, is playing in the Mexican League and homered in his first at-bat this season. Former Pirate Dick Stuart, after two years of playing baseball in Japan, was off to an .087 start with the California Angels.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S Bruce Christian is listed as the second team defensive end at Eastern Michigan U., but his status may improve. Coach Dick Boisture says Christian has come on strong during spring practice drills. "He reminds me a lot of George Webster," says Boisture. "He is not just a hard hitter, he is a lethal hitter. He comes at you like a spear."

BILL THOMPSON of Weirton, who starred for Bob Starkey at Shepherd State this season, was taken by the Baltimore Bullets in the NBA draft.

Jones Named Winner Four Hours After Race

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Parnelli Jones, a 15-year veteran of the track wars, won what he termed the toughest auto race of his career Sunday in an event that started with tragedy and ended in controversy.

Jones, 35, of Torrance, Calif., was declared the winner of the four-hour, Wolverine Trans American Sedan Race four hours after Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., had been ushered to victory lane and given the plaudits of a crowd of 21,648 at Michigan International Speedway.

After the finish, Homer Perry, a Ford Motor Co. official and manager of the Mustang team, asked Sports Car Club of America officials for a recheck of the timing charts

Perry said his own charts showed Jones the winner. It was learned that at least two other private charts had the Mustang out front.

After four hours of poring over the charts, lap by lap, SCCA officials determined that Parnelli had not been credited with at least three circuits of the 3.31-mile course.

A Lansing, Mich., man, Durward Fletcher, 43, was killed and 12 persons were injured, including Fletcher's wife, Lorna, 48.

Jones was paid $5,000 for his victory. Donohue, 31, who won 10 of the 13 Trans—Am races last season, received $3,500.

Jones' average speed was 85.49 miles per hour.

Third was Jerry Titus of Encino, Calif., in a Pontiac Firebird. Bob Tallius of Falls Church, Va., in a Javelin and Dick Lang of Xenia, Ohio, in a Camaro, rounded out the top five.

J. Williams Sets Oak Glen Vault Record

The 440 relay team of Rich Sims, Larry Neptune, Jim Carnes and Greg Hobbs set a meet record of :46.0, bettering the :46.2 posted by Weirton in 1967. The 880 relay team of Sims, John Everly, Carnes and Hobbs also was a winner, in 1:35.8.

Hobbs was second in the 100 in :10.2, while Carnes took second in the low hurdles in :21.0 and in the high jump in 5-6. Bob Coleman jumped 5-4 to tie for third.

John Williams placed fourth in the pole vault but set a school record of 10-9½. The old record of 10-6 had been tied by Williams and Joe Nemith earlier this year.

Don Mitchell was second in the high hurdles in :15.7. The mile relay team of Nemith, Williams, Ed Emery and Everly was fifth.

Ack Ack Winner On Foul; Baeza Victor In Illinois

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Braulio Baeza knows what the winner's circle at many tracks looks like. Now he's familiar with the one at Sportsman's Park.

The veteran Panamanian jockey waited until last Saturday, closing day of the meeting, to make his first appearance at the Chicago track and he did it in style—winning the $79,480 Illinois Derby aboard Ogden Phipps' King of the Castle.

Three-year-olds also were featured at Aqueduct in the $58,100 withers and Cain Hoy Stable's Ack Ack got the win after Neil Hellman's Gleaming Light, an 18-1 shot, was disqualified for interference in the stretch.

Gleaming Light finished the mile in 1:34 4-5, three-quarters of a length in front of Ack Ack, with Locust Hill Farm's Tyrant a head back and a neck in front of Osmer S. Deming's Rooney's Shield.

However, the stewards placed Gleaming Light fifth behind Claiborne Farm's Blade after ruling that jockey Larry Adams and Gleaming Light interfered with Rooney's Shield and Blade in the strech.

Ack Ack, Tyrant, Rooney's Shield and Blade are possibilities for next Saturday's Preakness Stakes, the second leg of the Triple Crown.

A trio of other 3-year-olds who did not race but were active over the weekend were Preakness contenders Majestic Prince, Top Knight and Arts and Letters. All three worked out at Pimlico.

In other national features Saturday:

Bill Hartack, who rides Majestic Prince, brought Gustave Ring's Czar Alexander, topweighted at 122 pounds, home by three-quarters of a length over Barney Lobel's Taneb in the $58,300 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico. The 1½ miles on the grass was timed in 2:30 4-5.

Frank D. Turner's Foggy Note romped to a 3½-length victory over Miss Ribot in the $33,200 Long Beach Handicap for fillies and mares at Hollywood Park and paid $66.80. The winner, who carried 110 pounds, seven less than Miss Ribot and 16 less than topweighted Pink Pigeon, who finished fourth, ran the mile in 1:35.

Dana Quigley Wins New England Golf

The 22-year-old senior won the 32nd New England tournament by defeating Fairfield's John McConachie 2 and 2 Sunday.

Townspeople Forgiving As Zap-In Ends

ZAP, N.D. (AP) — "We learned our lesson and learned it cheap," says village grocer David Schaper after the big "zap-in."

"Too much publicity and not enough police in town," he added Sunday. "We thought at first, the less law the better."

The western North Dakota prairie community of Zap was placed under martial law Saturday morning when about 500 National Guardsmen moved in to evict more than 2,000 college-age young people, some from as far away as Toronto, Canada, and Florida.

The "Zap-in," started as a light-hearted lark, but turned into a destructive spree. The original tongue-in-cheek suggestion came from the North Dakota State University student newspaper.

"Most of them were good kids," sighed Zap Mayor Norman Fuchs. He said only about 100 or 150 youngsters were responsible for the damage, but "you couldn't really tell who started it or what started it."

The mayor said he figured on a few broken windows "but nothing like this."

The trouble apparently began with the breaking of windows in the town's two taverns and only cafe.

Furnishings in the cafe and Lucky's Tavern were destroyed and some merchandise was taken. Two doors were ripped from the village auditorium and the door of a soft drink machine inside was ripped off.

Surveying his student-dubbed "Fort Lauderdale of the North," Fuchs said the damage would probably run from $5,000 to $10,000.

"The places were kind of run down anyway," Fuchs said with a smile.

A forget and forgive attitude was voiced Sunday in the pulpit of the town's Lutheran Church by the Rev. D. R. Helleckson.

"There's a bit of a conflict this morning on what we're most concerned with. It's the beginning of Soil Stewardship Week, it's Mother's Day and many of us are still uptight over the events Friday night," said the Rev. Mr. Helleckson.

The minister said, "There is no one to whom we can point and say, 'It's all his fault.' We have all sinned and fallen short of the glory of God and should not blame others for not being perfect."

Jury Is Sworn In Forgery Case

LISBON — A jury was sworn in this morning in Common Pleas Court for the trial of Edward W. Walker, 22, of Mt. Gilead, charged with passing a $117 forged check at Hillyer's Foodliner here.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard gave the state permission to amend the indictment by changing the date of the alleged offense from "on or about Jan. 12" to "on or about Jan. 10."

And the defendant was allowed to file a notice of alibi this morning after the state waived its right to a three-day notice of alibi.

Public Hearing Set On Changes In Roads

LISBON — A public hearing on the proposed relocation and abandonment of a portion of Routes 45 and 517 will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the David Anderson High School gymnasium.

Officials from the Ohio Department of Highways will be in charge. The changes are occasioned by the construction of Route 11 — the Lake Erie-to-Ohio River Freeway — east of here.

Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ray Sadecki of the San Francisco Giants lost the most games in the National League last season. Each lost 18 times. Osteen gave up the most runs, 109.

Steelers, Browns, Colts Move To AFL In Realignment

Bengals, Oilers Fill Area Division

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The best kept secret in pro football history is out, and Baltimore, Cleveland and Pittsburgh are in—the American Football League.

The switch of the three National League teams were made Saturday night, solving pro football's realignment problem for 1970 by creating two 13-team conferences.

Actually, agreement on the moving trio was reached at about midnight Friday, and the AFL realigned itself into three divisions within 45 minutes.

The decisions, however, were kept secret for 21 hours, until 10 o'clock Saturday night when Commissioner Pete Rozelle disclosed them to the world.

"All day I was scared that it would leak out," Rozelle said. "I didn't have much confidence that we could keep it secret."

Why did he keep it a secret instead of announcing it immediately?

"We wanted to do it in a package," the commissioner said. "We wanted so desperately to make it a package. We just wanted to wrap the whole bit up."

What Rozelle meant was he was waiting for the NFL to realign itself from four divisions of four teams each into two groups of four and one of five.

But while the remaining 13 club owners tried unsuccessfully to do that, the AFL owners continued meeting under voluntary house arrest at the plush pro football offices on Park Avenue while two blocks away, at the St. Regis Hotel, disheveled newsmen waited like expectant fathers all night and all day.

When the announcement finally came, most people were surprised. And, as could have been expected, fans in the three cities wtre not wildly enthusiastic about the developments.

The surprise came because the AFL got the NFL's defending champion, Baltimore, and its defending Eastern Conference titlist, Cleveland.

Baltimore had been considered a possibility, but certainly not with another NFL power. Pittsburgh, meanwhile, moved in tandem with the Browns.

"I would not move unless the Steelers moved," Art Modell, president of the Browns, said from his bed in New York's Doctors' Hospital, where he is resting his ulcers. The Steelers and Browns have had a strong rivalry going for years.

"Actually, there were two conditions. We had to be in the same division with Pittsburgh and we had to be in the same division with Cincinnati."

Those three teams are in one division, with Houston the fourth team. Baltimore is grouped with the world champion New York Jets, whom they lost to in the Super Bowl, Miami, Buffalo and Boston. The third division has Oakland, Kansas City, San Diego and Denver.

Modell's desire to be linked with Cincinnati is interesting because he is the man who fired the Bengals' boss, Paul Brown, as Cleveland coach in 1963. They since have been pictured as hostile to each other.

But Modell said: "We're very good friends. We're not going to get out on the field and duel. Cleveland and Cincinnati is a natural rivalry, a good intro-state rivalry that will endure for years after we're gone."

Johnny Unitas of Baltimore and Leroy Kelly of Cleveland also will be gone after some years, but for the immediate future, 1970, they are two of the NFL's superstars who will be playing in the AFL, or American Conference, as it probably will be called.

Besides getting these glamor guys, the AFL gets the best home drawing team in pro football—the Browns average about 80,000 a game; the No. 1 attraction, the powerful Colts with Unitas, John Mackey, etc., and a new stadium, Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, with a 53,000 capacity.

In return, each of the three teams will get somewhere from $2 million to $3 million as indemnity for moving to be subsidized by the remaining NFL clubs; owner Carroll Rosenbloom gets a permanent crack at the Jets, and the Steelers get a chance for a fresh start after 36 nonchampionship years in the NFL.

"One of the big things, as far as we're concerned," Rosenbloom said, "is that Baltimore has a natural rivalry now and for what we think will be a long time with the Jets. They beat us, and this is the only way we can get back."

The Steelers are one of the oldest NFL teams, having entered the league in 1933, and their owner, Art Rooney, is one of the best-liked men in the game.

"It's hard for him emotionally to accept that he's leaving the National Conference," said his son, Dan, the team's vice president. "But it's one league, and we're just playing in the American Conference."

As expected, the three teams began getting reaction from their fans immediately.

"I'm kind of disappointed because I don't think the quality of the games will be as good," said Bob Walters of Pittsburgh, who has watched the Steelers struggle to a 40-66-6 record in the eight years he has been a season ticket-holder.

"The Browns were knifed in the back by the NFL and Pete Rozelle," said Robert Crowed of Brookpark, Ohio. Added Nathaniel Flynt of Cleveland, "I think it stinks." "Is there any way it can be rescinded?" asked Roger Hedberg of Cleveland.

Ex-Justice Asks Ruling On Pension

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg says he is asking the American Bar Association to decide if it's ethical for him to accept a $25,000-a-year pension from the United Steelworkers union.

Goldberg said he told union President I. W. Abel Tuesday he would not accept the pension until he was sure it would be "free from even the appearance of impropriety."

The former justice and United Nations ambassador was a legal counsel for the union from 1948 until 1961, when he was named secretary of labor by the late President John F. Kennedy.

He said he waived the right to the lifetime pension when he entered public life. But the union's executive board unanimously approved its reinstatement Monday. The action was revealed Saturday in a copyrighted story in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

"I believe that before reinstatement is put into effect, there should be an impartial review and determination that such action meets the highest standards of professional and public ethics," the former justice said he wrote in a letter to Abel.

Jones Named Winner Four Hours After Race

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — Parnelli Jones, a 15-year veteran of the track wars, won what he termed the toughest auto race of his career Sunday in an event that started with tragedy and ended in controversy.

Jones, 35, of Torrance, Calif., was declared the winner of the four-hour, Wolverine Trans American Sedan Race four hours after Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., had been ushered to victory lane and given the plaudits of a crowd of 21,648 at Michigan International Speedway.

After the finish, Homer Perry, a Ford Motor Co. official and manager of the Mustang team, asked Sports Car Club of America officials for a recheck of the timing charts

Perry said his own charts showed Jones the winner. It was learned that at least two other private charts had the Mustang out front.

After four hours of poring over the charts, lap by lap, SCCA officials determined that Parnelli had not been credited with at least three circuits of the 3.31-mile course.

A Lansing, Mich., man, Durward Fletcher, 43, was killed and 12 persons were injured, including Fletcher's wife, Lorna, 48.

Jones was paid $5,000 for his victory. Donohue, 31, who won 10 of the 13 Trans—Am races last season, received $3,500.

Jones' average speed was 85.49 miles per hour.

Third was Jerry Titus of Encino, Calif., in a Pontiac Firebird. Bob Tallius of Falls Church, Va., in a Javelin and Dick Lang of Xenia, Ohio, in a Camaro, rounded out the top five.

J. Williams Sets Oak Glen Vault Record

The 440 relay team of Rich Sims, Larry Neptune, Jim Carnes and Greg Hobbs set a meet record of :46.0, bettering the :46.2 posted by Weirton in 1967. The 880 relay team of Sims, John Everly, Carnes and Hobbs also was a winner, in 1:35.8.

Hobbs was second in the 100 in :10.2, while Carnes took second in the low hurdles in :21.0 and in the high jump in 5-6. Bob Coleman jumped 5-4 to tie for third.

John Williams placed fourth in the pole vault but set a school record of 10-9½. The old record of 10-6 had been tied by Williams and Joe Nemith earlier this year.

Don Mitchell was second in the high hurdles in :15.7. The mile relay team of Nemith, Williams, Ed Emery and Everly was fifth.

Stanton Takes Fourth In District

Stanton placed fourth in the district track meet at Wintersville Saturday and qualified three individuals and two relay teams for the regionals at Worthington next Saturday.

The 880 relay team of Bob Haught, Jim McCourt, Keith Reese and Dave Olesky set a district record of 1:34. The mile relay team of John Minor, McCourt, Wilbur Carouthers and Mike Patterson plactd third.

Olesky qualified in both the 100 and 220, placing fourth in each. Danny Smith took a fourth in the high hurdles and Bob Blackburn fourth in the two-mile. Mark Hoobler finished third in the two mile but was disqualified for cutting in too soon.

Bob Holland failed to qualify in the pole vault. He did 11-6, but just missed 12-0 and missed once at 11-0, giving the qualifying spots to others at 11-6.

Ack Ack Winner On Foul; Baeza Victor In Illinois

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Braulio Baeza knows what the winner's circle at many tracks looks like. Now he's familiar with the one at Sportsman's Park.

The veteran Panamanian jockey waited until last Saturday, closing day of the meeting, to make his first appearance at the Chicago track and he did it in style—winning the $79,480 Illinois Derby aboard Ogden Phipps' King of the Castle.

It was also the initial appearance for Phipps' colors at Sportsman's Park.

Three-year-olds also were featured at Aqueduct in the $58,100 withers and Cain Hoy Stable's Ack Ack got the win after Neil Hellman's Gleaming Light, an 18-1 shot, was disqualified for interference in the stretch.

Gleaming Light finished the mile in 1:34 4-5, three-quarters of a length in front of Ack Ack, with Locust Hill Farm's Tyrant a head back and a neck in front of Osmer S. Deming's Rooney's Shield.

However, the stewards placed Gleaming Light fifth behind Claiborne Farm's Blade after ruling that jockey Larry Adams and Gleaming Light interfered with Rooney's Shield and Blade in the strech.

Ack Ack, Tyrant, Rooney's Shield and Blade are possibilities for next Saturday's Preakness Stakes, the second leg of the Triple Crown.

A trio of other 3-year-olds who did not race but were active over the weekend were Preakness contenders Majestic Prince, Top Knight and Arts and Letters. All three worked out at Pimlico.

In other national features Saturday:

Bill Hartack, who rides Majestic Prince, brought Gustave Ring's Czar Alexander, topweighted at 122 pounds, home by three-quarters of a length over Barney Lobel's Taneb in the $58,300 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico. The 1½ miles on the grass was timed in 2:30 4-5.

Frank D. Turner's Foggy Note romped to a 3½-length victory over Miss Ribot in the $33,200 Long Beach Handicap for fillies and mares at Hollywood Park and paid $66.80. The winner, who carried 110 pounds, seven less than Miss Ribot and 16 less than topweighted Pink Pigeon, who finished fourth, ran the mile in 1:35.

Dana Quigley Wins New England Golf

The 22-year-old senior won the 32nd New England tournament by defeating Fairfield's John McConachie 2 and 2 Sunday.

Townspeople Forgiving As Zap-In Ends

ZAP, N.D. (AP) — "We learned our lesson and learned it cheap," says village grocer David Schaper after the big "zap-in."

"Too much publicity and not enough police in town," he added Sunday. "We thought at first, the less law the better."

The western North Dakota prairie community of Zap was placed under martial law Saturday morning when about 500 National Guardsmen moved in to evict more than 2,000 college-age young people, some from as far away as Toronto, Canada, and Florida.

The "Zap-in," started as a light-hearted lark, but turned into a destructive spree. The original tongue-in-cheek suggestion came from the North Dakota State University student newspaper.

"Most of them were good kids," sighed Zap Mayor Norman Fuchs. He said only about 100 or 150 youngsters were responsible for the damage, but "you couldn't really tell who started it or what started it."

The mayor said he figured on a few broken windows "but nothing like this."

The trouble apparently began with the breaking of windows in the town's two taverns and only cafe.

Furnishings in the cafe and Lucky's Tavern were destroyed and some merchandise was taken. Two doors were ripped from the village auditorium and the door of a soft drink machine inside was ripped off.

Surveying his student-dubbed "Fort Lauderdale of the North," Fuchs said the damage would probably run from $5,000 to $10,000.

"The places were kind of run down anyway," Fuchs said with a smile.

A forget and forgive attitude was voiced Sunday in the pulpit of the town's Lutheran Church by the Rev. D. R. Helleckson.

"There's a bit of a conflict this morning on what we're most concerned with. It's the beginning of Soil Stewardship Week, it's Mother's Day and many of us are still uptight over the events Friday night," said the Rev. Mr. Helleckson.

The minister said, "There is no one to whom we can point and say, 'It's all his fault.' We have all sinned and fallen short of the glory of God and should not blame others for not being perfect."

Jury Is Sworn In Forgery Case

LISBON — A jury was sworn in this morning in Common Pleas Court for the trial of Edward W. Walker, 22, of Mt. Gilead, charged with passing a $117 forged check at Hillyer's Foodliner here.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard gave the state permission to amend the indictment by changing the date of the alleged offense from "on or about Jan. 12" to "on or about Jan. 10."

And the defendant was allowed to file a notice of alibi this morning after the state waived its right to a three-day notice of alibi.

Public Hearing Set On Changes In Roads

LISBON — A public hearing on the proposed relocation and abandonment of a portion of Routes 45 and 517 will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the David Anderson High School gymnasium.

Officials from the Ohio Department of Highways will be in charge. The changes are occasioned by the construction of Route 11 — the Lake Erie-to-Ohio River Freeway — east of here.

Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ray Sadecki of the San Francisco Giants lost the most games in the National League last season. Each lost 18 times. Osteen gave up the most runs, 109.

Ex-Justice Asks Ruling On Pension

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg says he is asking the American Bar Association to decide if it's ethical for him to accept a $25,000-a-year pension from the United Steelworkers union.

Goldberg said he told union President I. W. Abel Tuesday he would not accept the pension until he was sure it would be "free from even the appearance of impropriety."

The former justice and United Nations ambassador was a legal counsel for the union from 1948 until 1961, when he was named secretary of labor by the late President John F. Kennedy.

He said he waived the right to the lifetime pension when he entered public life. But the union's executive board unanimously approved its reinstatement Monday. The action was revealed Saturday in a copyrighted story in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

"I believe that before reinstatement is put into effect, there should be an impartial review and determination that such action meets the highest standards of professional and public ethics," the former justice said he wrote in a letter to Abel.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, May 12, the 233rd day of 1969. There are 132 days left in the year.

On this date in 1949, Soviet occupation authorities in Berlin announced that the 328-day blockade of land routes to the isolated city had been lifted.

In 1797, Venice, which had been independent for 14 centuries, was captured by Napoleon.

In 1820, the English founder of modern nursing, Florence Nightingale, was born in Florence, Italy.

In 1932, the body of the kidnapped baby son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Linbergh was found in a wooded area in Hopewell, N.J.

In 1943, the World War II battle of North Africa ended as the Germans surrendered at Cape Bon, Tunisia.

Ten years ago — The U.S. Secretary of State and the foreign ministers of Britain; France and the Soviet Union were meeting in Geneva to pave the way for a planned East-West summit meeting.

Junior Editors Quiz on CITIES OF GOLD

QUESTION: How was the legend of the Seven Cities of Gold started?

ANSWER: This dramatic story starts with the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards under Cortez in 1520. The Spaniards found both gold and jewels in Mexico and began to dream of similar riches in other parts of the New World. Indians told a fantastic story of great wealth in the little known country to the north, of a place called Cibola, where there were supposed to be seven cities piled with gold and glittering jewels. Francisco Coronado, a Spanish explorer, led an expedition from Mexico in search of the fabulous cities early in 1540. He arrived at the country now known as New Mexico and Arizona. But the glorious cities of his dreams turned out to be Indian pueblos made of adobe, without gold, and with only turquoises instead of the precious emeralds he hoped to find. What a strange thing history is! Columbus, searching for the Spice Islands of the East, did not realize he had discovered America. And Coronado did not realize the full import of his own expedition — for during his trip he discovered the Continental Divide, and the Grand Canyon, which many think is the most awe-inspiring natural wonder to be seen on our planet.

(Eric Ohlund of San Mateo, Cal., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Junior Editors Quiz on CITIES OF GOLD

QUESTION: How was the legend of the Seven Cities of Gold started?

ANSWER: This dramatic story starts with the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards under Cortez in 1520. The Spaniards found both gold and jewels in Mexico and began to dream of similar riches in other parts of the New World. Indians told a fantastic story of great wealth in the little known country to the north, of a place called Cibola, where there were supposed to be seven cities piled with gold and glittering jewels. Francisco Coronado, a Spanish explorer, led an expedition from Mexico in search of the fabulous cities early in 1540. He arrived at the country now known as New Mexico and Arizona. But the glorious cities of his dreams turned out to be Indian pueblos made of adobe, without gold, and with only turquoises instead of the precious emeralds he hoped to find. What a strange thing history is! Columbus, searching for the Spice Islands of the East, did not realize he had discovered America. And Coronado did not realize the full import of his own expedition — for during his trip he discovered the Continental Divide, and the Grand Canyon, which many think is the most awe-inspiring natural wonder to be seen on our planet.
